BARNEY ROSS WINS BACK WELTER TITLE IN DECISIVE STYLE

Chicago Jew Punches Way Through Fifteen Furious Rounds to Championship Again Against Jimmy McLarnin—Crowd Boos Verdict—Ross Is Given Ten Rounds

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.
POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—As the boos of the malcontents rose high in the muggy air, a battered, bleeding, but doggedly game Barney Ross climbed back tonight onto the welterweight throne, conqueror for the second time in three tries of the hero of the Irish, gallant Jimmy McLarnin, of Vancouver.

Barney came back the hard way, slugging out a decisive fifteen-round verdict over the bludgeoner who whipped him for the title last September, after Ross had won it in May the first time they tangled. He came back with blood trickling steadily from his nose, his features swarled and lumpy, but he came back, in the unanimous opinion of Jack Dempsey, who was the referee, and the two judges, Abe Goldberg and George Lecon.

SEVERE BODY BEATING
McLarnin, fighting a better, smarter, more thrilling battle than either of the nights they tangled before, escaped some of the outward signs of the struggle that marked Ross, but he took a severe body beating in the late rounds, his left eyebrow was cut in the eleventh and his right eye was swelling toward a close from the first half-down rounds on.

There were no knockdowns, but for sheer savagery and punching fury, it was one for boxing's history book. Time and again, McLarnin set Barney back on his heels with the left hooks and right hand smashes that once ruined an entire light-weight division, only to have the Chicago brawler absorb them, come back swinging and drive the Irishman to cover.

QUINTUPLETS AT FESTIVE PARTY

Radio Carries Sounds of Babies to Millions—Parents Absent

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28 (CP).—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their first birthday anniversary tonight with a chorus of baby talk, yells and screams for millions of well-wishing listeners. From their hospital home in Northern Ontario, all five—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie—took vocal part in official ceremonies marking an amazing year that saw them alive and thrive in the face of tremendous odds.

GURGLES AND HOWLS
Over a sterilized microphone they punctuated formal addresses with throaty gurgles and lusty howls. They yelled gleefully as they splashed in their bath, and prattled or cried when Dr. Allan Roy Dufour, while-coated and alone with them in the nursery, picked them up before they went to their five little beds.

With all the happy festivities, there was a note of sadness, however, that the parents of the five famous babies did not attend. PARENTS ARE ABSENT
Absent this morning from solemn High Mass in the Roman Catholic Church at nearby Corbiel, Oliva and Elzire Dionne celebrated their first birthday anniversary.

Still seeking full control of the children, and strongly opposing the Ontario Government's legislation that made the babies special wards of the King, the father today made public a statement he penciled in longhand. In it he said he and his wife "Don't consider this an honor to be invited by pure strangers to visit our own children, and have a certain length of time stated, from 5 to 6."

FIVE BUILDINGS SWEEP BY FIRES

HALIFAX, May 28 (CP).—Five buildings fell prey to flames in Nova Scotia today, two of them destroyed by a forest fire which threatened a section of Liverpool for several hours before it was brought under control.

An abandoned church owned by the Anglican Parish of Liverpool and the dwelling of George West-haver were destroyed, and two other buildings were saved by 200 volunteers, including many from the Mercury Paper Company.

The village of Belleville, Farm-mouth County, was in danger today when fire broke out in James J. Poirier's saw mill, raced through that structure and a nearby garage. The house of Percy Best, of Can-nis, and all the furnishings were destroyed by fire early today.

All Hands Saved From Ill-Fated Ship

A score of men were rescued by the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Cyane in Northern British Columbia, recently, when their freighter, the Denali, ran aground, took fire and her cargo of dynamite exploded, breaking the craft in two. Above is a photo showing the Cyane's lifeboat bringing survivors aboard the rescue ship off Zayas Island, Alaska. Below is a photo taken by one of the rescuers, showing the remains of the exploded ship on the shores of the island.

Cabinet's Overthrow In France Predicted As Bank Rate Soars

Finance Minister Gives Ominous Warning as to Lowering of State's Credit Through Speculation Against Currency—Parliamentary Opposition Strong Against Proposals

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)
PARIS, May 28.—The French Cabinet was reported tonight to be so shaken at parliamentary opposition to its demand for dictatorial powers to defend the franc that its resignation was a possibility. Friends of Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin said, however, he might attempt to dissolve Parliament and take his fight before the country in new elections.

Rapid Action Is Taken on Weights Bill

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP).—Speedy action greeted the first bill based on the report of the Price Spreads and Mass Buying Commission to receive consideration in the House of Commons tonight. It was a measure amending the Weights and Measures Act, introduced by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

It received second reading without discussion and no opposition to any of its provisions was offered in committee. One section to which an amendment is to be made was held over for consideration tomorrow.

Ready to Deal With Kidnappers to Have Their Boy Returned

Criminals Believed to Be Laying Final Plans for Collection of $200,000 Ransom—Report Made of Suspicious Car in Vancouver

TACOMA, Wash., May 28 (AP).—Somewhere outside the law, the kidnappers of George Weyerhaeuser were believed laying final plans tonight to attempt collection of $200,000 ransom for their curly-haired captive—and deliver him to his parents.

It was indicated that the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, awaited only directions from the abductors to begin negotiating over the ransom demand. Tomorrow is the "deadline" set by the kidnappers for payment of the $200,000.

FEARS FOR HIS LIFE
Fearing for the nine-year-old victim's life, if the ransom is not paid on time, the parents inserted an advertisement in the personal column of a Seattle newspaper today announcing they were ready to deal. "We are ready, Percy Minnie," the notice said.

DEATH OF NATIONAL RECOVERY ACT CAUSES GREAT CONFUSION

One Death Leads To Another and That to a Third
HANNA, Alta., May 28 (CP).—Slight of a dead infant led to the sudden deaths of its mother and grandmother. A daughter of Hanna, died soon after birth. Mrs. Keibel's mother, Mrs. Morach, while visiting suffered a stroke on seeing the dead child. The collapse of her mother caused immediate death to Mrs. Keibel. Mrs. Morach, taken to hospital, died without regaining consciousness.

Price-Cutting Starts and Coal Strike Looms as Administration Gropes About for New Policy

Labor Leaders Hasten to Washington for Conference—Are Frankly Pessimistic

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—Guerilla price-cutting and a threatened coal strike of nation-wide proportions rode the wreckage of NRA tonight as the New Deal groped in some confusion for a pathway into the future. President Roosevelt summoned congressional advisers, explored with them the crisis caused by the abrupt sentence of death imposed on the Blue Eagle by the Supreme Court of the United States and—reached no conclusions.

Many Big Firms Promise to Continue Present Conditions

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP).—Guerilla price-cutting and a threatened coal strike of nation-wide proportions rode the wreckage of NRA tonight as the New Deal groped in some confusion for a pathway into the future. President Roosevelt summoned congressional advisers, explored with them the crisis caused by the abrupt sentence of death imposed on the Blue Eagle by the Supreme Court of the United States and—reached no conclusions.

Normandie Starts on Run Today

LE HAVRE, France, May 28 (AP).—The giant French liner Normandie, carrying Mme. Albert Lebrun, wife of the President, and a host of celebrities, will cast off tomorrow on her maiden voyage and is due in New York on June 3.

The largest ship in commission seeks to seize the blue ribbon for speed. She is expected to reach New York in a few hours more than four days. The present record for the westward crossing is four days, seven hours and six minutes from Cherbourg Breakwater to Ambrose Lightship, established by the North German Lloyd liner Europa. For the eastward crossing, the Bremen of the same line, covered the distance in four days, sixteen hours and fifteen minutes.

STRIKERS VOTE TO WORK AGAIN

Employees of Union Steam-Ship Co. Accept Offer Almost Unanimously

VANCOUVER, May 28 (CP).—Sewards, deckhands and freight handlers of the Union Steamship Company of British Columbia today voted to return to their work tomorrow, breaking their six-day strike.

The men, at a special meeting, voted 150 to 6, to accept the terms offered by Harold Brown, managing director of the company. The company's entire fleet of Coast-wise vessels had been tied up due to the strike.

VALUATION AN ISSUE
Devaluation became an open issue as the Cabinet, its political life in the balance, asked Parliament to grant the sweeping emergency powers.

A grim, almost silent Chamber of Deputies listened coolly while Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin revealed the full frightening extent of the flight from the franc, scathingly assailed "speculators," declared "devaluation would cause general impoverishment in France" and pleaded for near-dictatorship in economic matters.

STRONG HOSTILITY
Strong hostility to the Government's demand quickly developed in the powerful radical Socialist party, which counts 200 deputies in the Chamber.

Bill Introduced to Regulate Hours of Work on Contracts

Measure Is One of Five to Meet Recommendations of Mass Buying Commission—Fair Wages Must Be Paid to All Employed

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP).—An eight-hour day and forty-four-hour week, with "fair wages" for all persons employed on Government contracts for "construction, remodeling, repair or demolition" of any work, and power for the Governor-in-Council to make such regulation as needed to secure these conditions, are provided in a measure introduced today in the House of Commons by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice.

One of a series of five prepared to meet to a considerable degree the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying, the bill was presented on behalf of Mon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, who was absent. The other four measures were introduced last week.

The Fair Wages and Eight-Hour Act of 1920 is repealed by this measure which enlarges upon the

INTOXICATED, DOCTOR SAYS

Testifies Mrs. Rattenbury Not in Condition to Make Credible Statement

LONDON, May 28 (CP).—A doctor's opinion that Mrs. Alma Rattenbury was not in a fit condition to make a credible statement, when she was questioned following the fatal wounding of her husband last March, was given the court as the Bournemouth murder trial resumed today.

Mrs. Rattenbury, thirty-eight, and eighteen-year-old George Stoner, her chauffeur, are accused of the murder of sixty-seven-year-old Francis Rattenbury, distinguished architect, who lived in Victoria for many years. The accused have separate counsel.

QUEUE IN STREET
A crowd of fashionably-dressed women again thronged the Old Bailey as the second day's hearing opened. A big queue lined up outside early in the day, but the public gallery could only accommodate about fifty of them.

Dr. O'Donnell, the first witness, said he had been summoned to the Rattenbury villa in Bournemouth on the night of March 24. He found Rattenbury unconscious, his head bathed in blood from a wound which the prosecutor contends was inflicted by the accused with a mallet.

Mrs. Rattenbury was "most excited," said the doctor, and intoxicated. She was holding a glass of whisky and soda. She was clad in pyjamas and wore no shoes. "Somebody finished him," the doctor quoted her as saying.

Floods Which Move Houses Are Mystery

AMIENS, France, May 28 (AP).—Mysterious floods inundated the countryside east of Amiens between Sauvies and Perrieres today, water rising in several villages to a depth of six feet. No deaths were reported, although it was feared some inhabitants may have been lost when fifteen houses were swept away and a barracks submerged at the military parade ground at Fond du Orace.

PRISONERS ASK FOR LUXURIES

Fifty Convicts Strike for Free Tobacco, Concerts And Baseball Games

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP).—Disorderly flared briefly in Prince Albert, Sask., Penitentiary yesterday when fifty convicts went on strike for free tobacco, Sunday and holiday musicals, the right to play baseball during exercise periods, and doubling of the remission period granted in observance of the King's Silver Jubilee. Advice reaching Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, indicated penitentiary officials had coped with the situation.

Official advice received here stated the men refused to go to work yesterday, and leaders of the group presented their demands. The fifty were immediately locked in their cells until they agreed to carry on their work as usual.

ASK FOR DOUBLE
Periods ranging as high as two months a year for prisoners with good records were remitted from sentences of those serving time in Canadian penal institutions and jails as one form of the Dominion's participation in the Silver Jubilee celebrations. This period the men wanted increased 100 per cent.

Striking prisoners expressed themselves as "satisfied" with food and general conditions, advice to the minister stated.

WILL REFUSE TO END AGREEMENT

Washington and Oregon Shingle Manufacturers Fear Increased Competition From Canada

SEATTLE, May 28 (AP).—Shingle manufacturers of Washington and Oregon, a shingle code executive declared tonight, will resist all attempts to cancel the Canadian-United States shingle import agreement, under which Canadian shippers are allowed one-quarter of the domestic market.

Charles McGrath, secretary-manager of the Washington-Oregon Shingle Association, the shingle code authority for this region, told the Associated Press that "cancellation of the agreement will result in closing two-thirds of the small mills and one-half of the large mills in Oregon and Washington."

Gordon Raphael, Vancouver, secretary of the British Columbia Red Cedar Shingle Export Association, Ltd., said discrediting the agreement would improve the shingle business in Canada.

Postmasters Receive Jubilee Medals for Meritorious Service

District Postal Superintendent Makes Presentation to Three Attending Convention Here—Major MacNaughton Receives Bear Skin

J. P. MURRAY, district postal superintendent, last evening presented Silver Jubilee medals for long meritorious service to A. L. Lazenby, postmaster at Port Hammond since July 1, 1890; James Plummeridge, who has been a postmaster since May 1, 1903, and now resides at Mission City, and Mrs. Barbara Brophy, of Lytton, a postmistress since September 9, 1904. Seventeen more medals will be presented to postal officials in other parts of the Province.

Major F. M. MacNaughton, retired district inspector, was presented with a bearskin rug from Northern British Columbia by G. D. Griffith, secretary-treasurer of Dominion Postmasters' Association. Delegates to the British Columbia branch of Canadian Postmasters' Association were entertained by Robert Simpson Western, Ltd., with a banquet and concert at the Empress Hotel, at which the presentations were made. H. V. Dalley, manager of the firm, occupied the chair.

Mr. Dalley, in welcoming delegates and wishing their convention every success, mentioned the tremendous importance of the postal service of Canada and praised its efficiency. From observations made at conventions throughout the Dominion he had attended during the past seven years, he could not help but notice the character and ability of officers selected by the various provincial associations.

PICTURES SHOWN

Those contributing to the programme were: Arthur Jackman, songs; "Bertram Little," comedians; Miss Marie North, songs; Thelma Ackerman, Thelma Stratford and James Watt, dances; William Harkness, illusions. Motion pictures taken by E. J. Underwood during a visit to the Postal Union Congress at Cairo, Egypt, were shown under the direction of J. B. Corley, of Calgary.

Thomas Kelway led community singing, including a humorous song bringing in the names of H. Morgan, J. L. Jackson, Mr. Murray, Mr. Griffith, Captain Nathaniel Gray and Mr. Corley.

Delegates heard W. T. Straith, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, during a luncheon given them by the Hudson's Bay Company at noon. He was introduced by A. E. Scalfie, postmaster at Colquitz.

"I take this opportunity to pay tribute to postmasters, postmistresses and other officials for Canada's unexcelled mail service. Your service is never in the red ink, and for that we say God bless you for the example you set," declared Mr. Straith.

"There is a certain atmosphere of mystery in the postal service. We find our mail day by day, often with no sight of the carrier. There is also romance in international postal service when one considers that a letter may travel through dozens of countries to reach its destination."

CARIBOO DAYS

"Hark back to the days of the old Cariboo with stage coaches carrying mail through the risks of treacherous roads and bad characters awaiting an opportunity to pillage. The spirit that the mail must go through is written across the pages of British Columbia's history. Today the romance still exists in Northern British Columbia, with dog teams and airplanes carrying out the same spirit," Mr. Straith asserted. He closed by telling the visitors of some of the city's attractions.

W. R. Langstaff, postmaster at Merritt, thanked the speaker and the Hudson's Bay Company, in proposing a toast to the hosts.

James S. Horne, superintendent of the company, spoke in glowing terms of the province's postal service and hoped that delegates would enjoy their short stay in Victoria.

George H. Gardner, Victoria postmaster, welcomed delegates at the afternoon business session.

PLEDGE LOYALTY

Postmasters and postmistresses unanimously decided to renew their pledge of loyalty to the King in this memorable jubilee year, with a wish for his long and continued health and happiness.

They decided to ask the Postmaster-General's Department for simplified return forms, permission to use indelible pencil on reports and for an improved grade of paper.

Feeling that postmasters and postmistresses dependent upon commissions had experienced a considerable reduction in business during the past five years, they passed a resolution urging restoration of the 3 per cent cut.

They also agreed that there should be a minimum parcel post rate of five cents for parcels up to five ounces in weight.

MOTION PICTURES OF YUKON SHOWN

Harry Lewis Displays Reels of Dawson City and Surrounding Area to Club

Motion pictures of placer mining activities in the Yukon, as well as a reel showing herds of caribou and another depicting the natural coloring of the country surrounding Dawson City, were displayed yesterday at the Kiwanis Club luncheon in the Empress Hotel by Harry Lewis, a native son of Victoria, who has resided in the North country for the past four years.

The Kiwanis Club members were highly interested in the pictures and asked numerous questions about the mining operations there.

The natural color pictures were clearly shown, and the clubmen expressed surprise that such beautiful flowers could be grown in the Yukon.

Mr. Lewis displayed the general belief that it was perpetually cold and icy in that district. Vegetables grew quickly and in abundance.

The Kiwanis Club shelter on Finlayson Point will be completed inside of a week, it was announced.

Steel Plant at Sydney Is Busy

SYDNEY, N.S., May 28 (CP).—The Canadian Pacific Railway has placed an order for 7,000 tons of rails with the Dominion Steel & Coal Corporation, to be rolled at the Sydney plant, it was learned today. The plant is now working on a South African order.

SAYS GAS IS NOT SUBJECT TO DUMP DUTY

Counsel Takes Position That No Authority Exists for Collecting It

SUGGESTION OFFERED ON SECTION REPEAL

C. H. O'Halloran, counsel for the fuel commission, stated at the hearing here yesterday that dumping duties, relating to gasoline and fuel oil coming into Canada, were null and void. The assertion was made when Charles Conyers, customs appraiser at this port, was called to testify about regulations with respect to dumping duties.

Mr. O'Halloran maintained since 1934, when the section of the Dominion statutes, dealing with importation of gasoline, was repealed, there was nothing left under which dumping duties could be enforced.

In support of this he quoted R. L. Graham, of Regina, counsel for the Saskatchewan Government, who had appeared lately before the Tariff Commission. The dumping duty which was included in the act in 1931 made applicable the special duty when a fair market price had not been charged. By an amendment in 1934 the section was repealed.

Mr. O'Halloran asked the witness to go more fully into the matter for the commissioner.

HOW ACT APPLIES

Mr. Conyers described the procedure in assessing the duty upon this commodity of 2½ cents an imperial gallon, testing, in specific gravity, lighter than 725 at 60 degrees. There was a sales tax of 6 per cent and a 3 per cent tax added.

C. H. O'Halloran asked the witness concerning the dumping duty and the method of applying it to arrive at a fair market value. Mr. Conyers said a fair market value was ascertained on the basis of the time and the place where the sale of the gasoline took place, and the price applied to home consumption in that country.

Mr. O'Halloran said it appeared the customs officer was not the one to fix that price and it should be fixed by a special officer or by order-in-council.

The witness said that under the statutes of 1930 where a special dumping duty is imposed it shall not exceed 50 per cent ad valorem.

OFFICIAL PRACTICE

The practice of officials was, that after examining invoices, the conclusion was reached that they were not in accordance with the rule regarding a fair market price. A report was made to the Minister of National Revenue. If deemed necessary an investigating officer was sent and made his report to the minister and then determined whether a dumping duty should be applied.

The commissioner, Hon. M. A. Macdonald, asked if the goods were held up while an investigation was being made. The witness said there was no delay, as ordinary duties were paid and the goods released on the understanding that if the dumping duty clause applied it would be paid.

STATIONS NON-PAYING

R. R. Taylor, of the Victoria Super Service Station, corner of Blanshard and Johnson Streets, testified that it did not appear possible to make gas stations paying establishments where they were independent of other business, such as repairs. Victoria had about 135 stations, about one for every seventy cars, he said.

Mr. Justice Macdonald asked the witness if there would be an increase in consumption if the price of gasoline was reduced. Mr. Taylor said he had no doubt if gasoline was 24c a gallon there would be a decided increase of consumption. He said the cost of lighting and general upkeep of stations was very high and eventually the public paid for it through the price of gasoline.

NOT BENEVOLENT

It was pointed out that there was valuable property connected with stations and the commissioner said he did not think he would be prepared to help pay for these valuable properties by adding to the price of gasoline.

In connection with the gas tax, the witness said that when gasoline was purchased at a station the company added the gas tax to the price, therefore no bookkeeping was needed at the station.

HEARING OF MURDER CHARGE POSTPONED

PERNIE, B.C., May 28 (CP).—Preliminary hearing of James Ball, charged with the murder of Mike Harnis at Flagstone, B.C., thirty-five miles south of here, was postponed today and will probably start about June 12. Ball is being removed to the Nelson jail.

Harnis was shot to death May 8, and police stated jealousy over Ball's wife was involved.

AGED RESIDENT OF LADYSMITH PASSES

LADYSMITH, May 28.—The death occurred at the family residence this morning, after a short illness, of Mrs. Elizabeth McCulloch, in her eighty-sixth year. Mrs. McCulloch was born in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, and has resided in Ladysmith twenty-eight years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. Kerr, of Ayr, Scotland, and Miss M. McCulloch, at home. The funeral will take place on Thursday.

Ask your DOCTOR if the Cathartic Habit is Good for You!

Here are TWO WAYS to fight Constipation...

THE OLD WAY

YOU TAKE any one of the numerous laxatives or cathartics on the market. In one large drug store, there were 312 such items, by actual count.

WHAT HAPPENS: If the laxative or cathartic which you take is potent enough, it irritates the delicate lining of your intestines, draws water from your tissues—or otherwise promotes an "unnatural" and forced bowel evacuation.

RESULT: You may get a partial or complete "cleaning out," perhaps accompanied by griping. Such results are purely temporary... and may ultimately weaken your whole digestive system—lead to the dangerous "cathartic habit."

THE NEW WAY

YOU EAT a cake of Fleischmann's new Yeast half an hour before meals or at bedtime—plain or in a little water. You can get it at grocers, drug stores, restaurants and soda fountains.

HOW IT WORKS: Almost at once, it starts the flow of your digestive juices and strengthens—yes, strengthens—your entire intestinal tract from the stomach on down. This gradually builds up a healthier condition all through you.

RESULTS: You feel better. Appetite and digestion improve. Your food does you more "good." And, as you continue eating Fleischmann's Yeast, your evacuations become regular and natural. You can discontinue harsh cathartics!

In one hospital alone, 93% of constipation cases were corrected by "DIGESTIVE ACTIVATOR" method

IF YOU want to get rid of your constipation... if you want to say "good-bye" to your indigestion, that run-down feeling and the skin troubles that go with it... then here is news for you!

No longer need you rely on cathartics that may actually harm you. No longer need you be content with a mere occasional "cleaning out."

For a new, entirely different way of dealing with the constipation problem is now available... a way that is giving astonishing results in thousands upon thousands of cases of the most chronic kind.

It is called the "digestive activator" method, for it supplies to your stomach and intestines a remarkable tonic substance just like your digestive organs themselves produce when healthy. Fleischmann's Yeast—alone of all foods—is naturally rich in this remarkable substance!

Peps up lazy digestive muscles

When you eat this new Fleischmann's Yeast, you immediately start your digestive "machinery" working. Your stomach juices flow stronger and those lazy digestive muscles become more active. Food, inside you, is softened... and your bowels have an easier time in disposing of waste.

So extraordinary are the results of this new method that in one great Eastern hospital

93% of chronic constipation cases were corrected—while in others 83% of indigestion cases and 89% of skin cases of digestive origin were also relieved!

Just eat two or three cakes (or more) of Fleischmann's Yeast daily—preferably half an hour before meals. If you're now taking cathartics, discontinue them gradually, as the yeast strengthens your bowels. Then, watch for results... in your appetite, digestion, skin! Your energy should reappear. You should feel like doing things—enjoying things again!

But, don't be impatient. Fleischmann's Yeast is a food, you know, not a medicine—and you're eating it to correct your troubles and keep them corrected. So keep it up.

And above all... BEGIN! Don't delay another day in getting Fleischmann's Yeast's benefits.

Fleischmann's Yeast is also richer than any other food in the group of 4 vitamins (Vitamins A, B, C and D) which everyone needs to build up a reserve of health.

IN SPEAKING OF THE CATHARTIC HABIT, Dr. Robert Latell, head of a famous Vienna "internal" clinic, says: "Such measures only aggravate constipation. The best way to correct this evil is to eat fresh yeast." The new fresh yeast gave "remarkable results" in the tests in his own clinic.

THE PRICE OF REPUTATION

No two men in Canada during recent years have given the country a worse financial black eye than Premier Hieppurn of Ontario and Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver. Canada's credit, for the time being, has disappeared in the world's financial centre of London. Premier Bennett found this out during his recent visit. One of his purposes while in England was to negotiate a loan, and he believed it could be secured at a low rate of interest. He found, however, that the financial authorities in London could not satisfy his need because this Dominion's credit had been injured through repudiation threats in British Columbia and action to that end taken in Ontario. Mr. Bennett on his return told of what he had learned in these words:

"The public credit of Canada was injured to some extent by the so-called Vancouver incident, but whatever was left was completely destroyed by the action of the Ontario Legislature in repudiating hydro-contracts. We were prepared to carry out the conversion of the $125,000,000 loan which will mature at an early date, but in consequence of that particular legislation in the Ontario Legislature, this matter had to be abandoned. The loss involved in the Dominion will amount to $700,000 per annum for the next twenty years."

In commenting on the cost of repudiation, The Montreal Star says: "Our public credit, completely destroyed and a net loss to the Dominion of fourteen million dollars over a twenty-year period, and all because two men persisted in taking the way of repudiation, of dishonoring undertakings entered into in good faith. Mr. Bennett spoke strongly, but nobody can doubt that he told the truth. The damage done may be even greater than he has estimated, unless some action is taken that will tend to restore outside confidence in this country. Canada's credit has stood so high in the Old Country and elsewhere in the past that it is all the more galling to find it damaged by men who deliberately discredited their provinces in the face of ample warning and overwhelming proof of the certain consequences."

THE DARDANELLES

The likelihood is that at the conference to be held in Rome next month the question will be raised of the rearmament of the Dardanelles. That zone is now demilitarized by a treaty. The strait has a length of forty miles, separates Europe from Asia and unites the Sea of Marmora with the Archipelago. Up to 1920 both sides of the strait were strongly fortified. The Allied Powers found the attempt to force the strait during the Great War beyond their strength. Under the Treaty of Lausanne of 1923 the freedom of the strait was guaranteed in time of peace and for neutrals when Turkey was at war. The three chief European Powers and Japan undertook to guarantee the freedom of navigation and the security of the demilitarized zones in return for the concession by Turkey of a restricted right of passage for warships.

Turkey now seeks to rearm the Dardanelles as in the past. In this claim she will have the support of Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece. Great Britain, probably France and presumably Italy will be opposed to such rearmament. As these are the Powers meeting in Rome next month it is not clear that Turkey's claim will be looked upon with any favor. The fact remains, however, that for the first time the Dardanelles are dominated by the Turks. Under a Nationalist Government that country has the right to possess a fleet, to garrison Constantinople and the demilitarized zone on either side of the strait have been reduced in area. It is probably Geneva that will ultimately have to decide on Turkey's claim, which in the meantime, injects a new source of trouble in Europe.

LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVES

In British Columbia, for provincial purposes, the name Liberal-Conservative Party no longer exists. The word Liberal was dispensed with at a convention held at Kamloops in 1927. In the other provinces of the Dominion, however, what are known as the Conservative parties are Liberal-Conservative in their nomenclature. Similarly the Federal Conservatives, led by Mr. R. B. Bennett, continue to be known as Liberal-Conservatives. How this has come about is a matter of history. Originally the two main parties of the country were Liberals and Conservatives. These in the course of time suffered defections, and in 1854 there were seven distinct political groups in Parliament at Ottawa—four from Upper Canada and three from Lower Canada.

Of the Upper Canada groups one was the strictly Conservative Party, led by Sir Allan MacNab; the second group was the Moderate Conservatives, led by John A. Macdonald; the third group was known as Moderate Liberals, and the fourth group was the Radical or Advanced Liberal Party. The three groups from Lower Canada were known as "the Blue Party," made up of French-Canadians, nominally Liberals but Conservative in action; "The Red Party," of French-Canadian Liberals, and the third group was composed of the English-speaking minority in Lower Canada.

In the Summer of 1854 the Government of Upper Canada (the Moderate Liberal group) was defeated and resigned. Sir Allan MacNab was called on to form a Government. Having insufficient followers he invited the co-operation of John A. Macdonald, and at that time the latter took the viewpoint that the bounds of the Conservative Party should be enlarged, "so as to embrace every person desirous of being counted a progressive Conservative." Thus a junction was formed between the Moderate Conservatives and the Moderate Liberals which included in its ranks, as well as the Blue Party, or Moderate French-Canadian Liberals, some of the English-speaking minority group. This fusion was given the name of Liberal-Conservative, which has remained until the present time. It was a fusion born of a political crisis when patriotism brought men together. It was perpetuated when Confederation was being fashioned and when Liberals, like George Brown and Etienne Cartier of Lower Canada, co-operated with John A. Macdonald in bringing about the linking of the country which made Canada a political and national entity.

A CAREERS MASTER

A pithy and practical suggestion affecting education has been made by a writer in The London Times. It is to the effect that there should be a "future careers master" in each school whose work could be divided into three main parts. He should be a never-failing source of information on the details of getting jobs. He should know the dates of public examinations for posts, the age limits, the subjects required and the standard necessary for success, the comparative costs of various types of training and the possibilities of obtaining special grants and scholarships. Moreover, says this writer, such a master should be able to tell the boy what any job is like from the inside and what the work entails. In elaborating on this proposal he says:

"Some of this information can be obtained from official sources; but there the personal touch is missing. The boy is not told how he will actually be spending his days, for the next ten years, whether or not he can live on his initial salary, what sort of people he will be working with; in fact just those things it is important for him to know. It is here that old boys can be of assistance. The careers master can make a collection of letters from boys who are doing well in different walks of life. They should not be written by anyone too old; between twenty-five and thirty-five is about the right age, while the early struggles and joys are still fresh in the mind."

On the basis of such information the suggestion is that the parent and the school authority, with the help of facts, can decide for what a boy is best suited. Once a decision is reached the careers master would have the task of finding an opening for the boy. It is suggested, moreover, that a committee of old boys who are in business could be formed to be on the look-out for vacancies. It would also be the duty of the careers master to meet employers of labor and find out their specific requirements. A school situated in a town has all the opportunities of getting into touch with local business men. The writer then says:

"Nowadays, owing to the complexity of modern civilization, the types of employment available are so numerous and varied that it should be possible to find a satisfactory career for any human being, and one in which his own peculiarities and talents will bring him success and happiness. It is a matter of investigation into a boy's capabilities and then applying knowledge of the openings. If only parents, boys and masters would more often work together at this end there would be little ground for complaint that education in this country does not help a boy to get work and make good."

THE VALUE OF THE CROWN

The value of the Crown as a unifying force in the Empire is incalculable. The "geographical" continuity of these realms, remaining in place while party leaders rise to power and fall again, is an asset of priceless worth. As Mr. Baldwin pointed out, it is to be imagined when we review the developments of the past twenty-five years, that any political party or combination of political parties in this country could hold together a vast Empire scattered all over the world. Men like General Hertzog, the South African Premier, who were once passionately attached to the Republican ideal, have come to realize that under the Crown the welfare of all the Dominions and any other form of government, a hundred years ago there were political thinkers who doubted whether a constitutional monarchy like that of Britain was the stimulation of healthy progress in an Empire of such vast proportions inhabited by an endless diversity of races. The answer of recent history has been emphatically in the affirmative—Belfast Telegraph.

What a wonderful—what an almost magical power a writer of great genius confers upon us, when we read him intelligently—Mann.

Note and Comment

J. R. R. D.

However, the fact that he has carried on so pleasantly to the end of his life, is a remarkable feat.

More buildings are going up, and business is looking up instead of going down. That is the good news we have been reading about in the newspapers of both Canada and the United States. Construction has commenced in a physical sense, and probably we shall read less about reconstruction in an abstract sense, in the sense of social credit and other mystical or quack cures for the ills of the depression. It may be true that the depression was begun by crazy speculation, followed by a panic on the stock exchanges, but it is none the less true that when building ceased, that capped the climax of the slump. When there came a check in the business of building houses of all kinds, from residences to warehouses, factories and workshops, thousands of workmen were thrown out of employment, and that condition had more to do with accentuating and prolonging the depression than any other factor, even including the much discussed factor of international barriers to trade. In Canada the slump in building had more to do with the depression than the fall in the prices of farm products, although agriculture is supposed to be our basic industry. Builders form the majority of consumers.

The Roosevelt policy of allowing billions of dollars for a building construction programme may have begun the revival in the building trade of the United States. Without any such stimulus, building is going up in Canada. The welcome change in this country was apparent before there was any improvement in the United States. A factory, when it is finished, may be the hive of a big industry and provide accommodation for many machines and mechanics. But the employees of the factory will all be specialists in a few trades. A factory, when it is raising from its foundations to its roof, will furnish employment to men of many trades. That is why building is the most important of all modern human activities.

We have not to look beyond the bounds of our own province to realize what happens when there is a slump in the building trades. Cities cease to grow in population, and many of the population either migrate or are forced to apply for relief. If the revival continues for the past three years. Governments may do something for the relief of the unemployed by clearing the way for the initiative of private enterprise, which alone can be depended upon to provide permanent employment at adequate wages. When government does that, it has done its part.

One of the great Apostles bewailed the fact that he was afflicted with a thorn in the flesh. Most of the nations of the world are either afflicted with thorns in the flesh or confronted with problems. The problem of Europe is Hitler. Through the courtesy of a reader we have before us a book which discusses and analyzes the case of modern Germany, and modern Germany is personified in Hitler. It seems to us that the problem of Europe is whether Germany as personified by Hitler can be trusted, whether Germany really has abandoned her predatory instincts and all her purposes are peaceful. Here is an analysis of the state of Germany by a writer with a German name: We must not forget how firmly Hitler's prestige is rooted in Germany's relationships with other powers. The foreign policy of the Third Reich, and the way in which other countries have reacted and are reacting, have been immensely useful in strengthening his position. He proclaims the breaking of the chains of the Versailles Treaty; he is never tired of demanding equality of status for Germany, and in almost every speech he asserts the peacefulness of his intentions. He is continually extending the hand of friendship to France in particular.

The people, for whom a critical review of his position is practically impossible because of his opinion is forbidden, cling to his reassuring words. They do not ask or examine what is to be understood by the "moral and material equality of status for which they are to strive." They are hardly aware, for instance, that in reality the demand for equality of armaments conceals the aspiration for unfettered sovereignty in the sphere of armaments, and they have only a dim notion that the chief aim of the attempts to separate that country from her friends and allies, and thus leave Germany a free hand to undertake adventures in Eastern Europe.

The people are nourished with the conviction that the Fatherland is surrounded by enemies who are eager to attack, and that the great merit of the Reich at the helm has been to make the nation strong and ready for defence by wholesale rearmament and the revival of the military spirit. Thus not only those military spirits who have been brought up in a nationalist atmosphere, but the effects of nationalist propaganda can be felt right in the heart of the proletariat.

Through the kindness of another reader we have been furnished with part of an article which is pertinent.

to one of the most acute problems of Canada, and especially pertinent to one of the personal paradoxes of British Columbia. The writer of the criticism is Lord Justice Percy, and his Lordship is replying to some Social Creditist called Cole. Following is the criticism:

Mr. Cole can see nothing in the fear of run-away printing-presses controlled by politicians except a substitution that governments are inherently stupid. He misses the obvious point, which indeed he has already emphasized in another connection, that the volume of money under the existing system is, in the last resort, regulated by its creator, or borrower's ability to earn a profit on its use. This check may be a bad one, but it is a check; whereas, even theoretically, the only check on the Government printing press must be the mere opinion of certain individuals, formed under considerable pressure, as to how much the citizen can usefully spend. Again in one passage, Mr. Cole recognizes that "in order to be entitled to receive the social dividend, an able-bodied citizen would have to be prepared to work up to a standard sufficient to justify his claim to share in the common heritage of society." But he is careful not to develop the point—still less to meet the obvious objection that a man who is dependent for his livelihood on the discretion of a Government cannot be free man, the contrary of which is the very definition of a "social dividend." In other words, the elementary argument that Mr. Cole of Major Douglas has to meet is that the creation of a "social dividend" will be pro tanto either a black-mailer or a slave.

After all that has been said about wages of money, and so on, it seems strange to hear of a provincial objection to operation of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act in the Sumas, or any other, area—B.C.G.

Just Wondering!
After hearing Vancouver's major denounce usurers and the earning power of money, we wonder when, like charity, the new financial system will begin at home, for there does not seem to be any appreciable reduction in the interest charged by Vancouver to delinquent taxpayers.—B.A.M.

Nothing Wrong in a Real Alibi—It is funny how newspaper writers have twisted that latin word "alibi" to really mean "at another place," into a synonym for "excuse." Even the criminal trial in Chief does it. In a criminal trial an "alibi" is the best possible defence unless the jury believe in crime by remote control. In sport, if a man loses a game or contest, it is often because he just "isn't there." An alibi of that kind is useless but excusable.—R.L.P.

Patience Required, Too—Candidate number one for Victoria's hall of fame is the man who has out-Hopped Major Hoople and invented a simple means of removing the weeds from his newly sown lawn. All that is read is an ordinary eyebrow plucker, or tweezers, the type used for extracting slivers from one's hands. With this cheap instrument it is possible to lift the multitude of weeds from the garden without taking up the young, tender shoots of grass—P.C.R.

Did His Worship Bite?—Mayor David Leeming gave postmasters and postmistresses a glowing address of welcome when they assembled at Canadian Postmasters' Association convention here. But His Worship couldn't refrain from taking a dig at them for holding up chain letters several weeks ago. He said it though it was none of their affair to hold up anybody's mail. One of the delegates was heard to remark that the mayor might be right but he personally had made $23 out of three chain letters while twenty-four hours in an interior town—G.B.

Maybe, Making Up Her Mind!—Why is it that some people, especially the ladies, press the street car buzzer and when the conductor stops the car they say "Oh, I am so sorry, I want to get off at the next street." This happens regularly. There is some excuse when it is dark for anyone can make a mistake then, but when a woman does it in the broad daylight, the very lady did Sunday on the No. 6, comes along heading for Foul Bay, there is little explaining to be done, for that's simply lack of thought or a slight touch of absent-mindedness.—J.D.

Suggestion for Next Year—We join many other citizens in paying tribute to the members of the Victoria May 24 committee for their efforts—in connection with the three-day celebration recently brought to a close. They did their job well, and gave this city one of its best celebrations in many years. The parade, too, was of much higher standard than in more recent years. One very noticeable aspect, however, was the absence of commercial floats, and the "kiddies" they were certainly missed. Perhaps next year we shall be favored with a large commercial entry, and the return to the parade of the children. For many years the children were one of the outstanding features, and we think we voice the sentiment of many more when we say we would like to see their return.—S.T.

MASSED CHOIR
Sir—Now that the massed choir concert, in connection with the recent celebration is a thing of the past, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who helped to make the performance such an unqualified success.

The ready co-operation of conductors and singers was most commendable, and augurs well for future productions along these lines. Especially a word of thanks is due Edward Parsons for his superlative work as accompanist for the chorus. It was certainly thrilling to conduct such an enthusiastic group of singers. FRANK TUPMAN, 2820 Heath Street, Victoria, B.C., May 26, 1935.

MAY 24TH CELEBRATIONS
Sir—I would like through the medium of your valuable paper to express my thanks to those responsible for the enjoyable time accorded me during the May 24th celebrations, and especially to Mr. Blackford and Mr. Hunter for their courtesy and help. I would also like to thank the other contestants for the cordial manner in which they received me. MURIEL EVANS, Box 132, Duncan, B.C., May 26, 1935.

A DENIAL
Sir—At a meeting held not so long ago under the auspices of the League Against War and Pacifism, and at which I was chairman, someone remarked in the discussion the Archbishop of Canterbury draws part of his income from shares in an armament firm. You are at liberty to make it known that any statement to that effect is utterly untrue and without the least shadow of justification.

The endowments of the See of Canterbury, so far as they consist of stock securities, are gilt-edged securities, and not shares in industrial firms—whether armament or otherwise.

As to the ecclesiastical commissioners, they have not at any time, and do not now hold, any shares in any armament firm. As to the second statement that Soviet Russia is the most prosperous country in Europe today, this is a matter upon which there would be much doubt as to the truth of the statement. It depends upon what is meant by prosperity. It is, I believe, a fact that in certain parts of the Soviet Union there has been widespread famine, resulting in the deaths of some millions of people. But it is a matter of the utmost difficulty to send any assistance to the sufferers, and no general appeal for funds to send food to these people has been issued in this country. Certain societies connected with the various Christian churches are doing what they can in a small way to send help to individuals in Russia. But assistance on a large scale is out of the question, and so far as I am aware has never been attempted.

Faithfully yours,
"Alan G. Dawkins, Chaplain," which he was put to death: "Saying that He Himself is Christ, a King" (Luke xlii, 2). To Pilate's interrogatory: "Surely, Thou art not a King, then?" Jesus replied: "That thou sayest, that I am a King" (John xviii, 37).

In my letter in today's issue, I have proved that Christ's claim was acknowledged and accepted, and that even the Sanhedrin, tacitly and by fair and inevitable implication, admitted that His lineage was in the Davidic line.

To this claim B.I. raises a two-fold objection: (1) "He refused to be called 'a King'." Not so! His advent and His ministry were both headed in terms of "The Kingdom, now at hand." During His Judean and Galilean ministries, He offered Himself in good faith as King—in the Sermon on the Mount, and in the Parables of the Kingdom (Matt. xlii). He laid down the principles of the kingdom in perfect accord with Messianic prophecies. What Jesus did refuse was "to be taken by force and made a King—a King of the B-I type!"

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of May 29, 1885)

Seven drivers were charged in the police court yesterday with fast driving over Bark Bay Bridge, and were ordered to pay the shunt fine of $5.00. The law prohibiting fast driving over the city bridge is broken every day, and as a consequence the structures are injured to a great extent.

Yesterday afternoon, at one of the employees of Lumsden & Co. was heating turpentine and oil in a vessel over a coal oil stove, the vessel broke and the inflammable liquid fell on the floor. One of the clerks dashed three or four hand grenades on the fire, but they had no effect, and the flames were extinguished which scattered the burning liquid. A. J. Lumsden, in an effort to extinguish the fire, was scorched on the face and hands, and had his hair and eyebrows burned. One of the clerks was also burned on the hands. Finally wet cloths were procured and the flames smothered. The damage was slight, but had the fire reached the oil and turpentine in the rear of the establishment, the whole place would have been destroyed.

The storeman Ellis Anderson will leave Johnson Street wharf at 8 o'clock Sunday morning for Roche and Friday Harbor, returning at 6 p.m.

Judean Kingdom in 587 B.C. and the beginning of Christ's ministry is an interregnum of 600 years. This interval, B.I. contends, violates Christ's claim, inasmuch as David's kingdom was to last for ever. My reply is:
(a) The decision must rest with the reader. Shall the unsupported, oft-repeated claim of our Saviour, endorsed by His own day and generation, and by countless millions of our race through twenty centuries? (b) The fact of this very interregnum, the period of its duration, the successive events which mark its course, its termination, marked by the advent of the long-expected King-Messiah, were all foretold by the prophet (Ezek. xli, 25) in announcing Zedekiah's doom. "And thou, profane, knavish Prince of Israel, whose day is come, thus saith Jehovah God: 'Off with the mitre (the turban of the H.P.) Away with the crown! This also (whatever it be that men substitute for the Davidic dynasty) is not (shall not continue in existence). Turn things upside down! Up with the low! Down with the high! Thrice overturned will I make it (the kingdom). And it (the kingdom) shall be no more until He (United States dollar at par.

come, whose is the judgment-right and to Him will I give it." I will, with your kind permission, sir, discuss little Teph's claim in a further letter. Meanwhile, here is a hint for your readers to crack. If the Davidic promises had already been fulfilled in Teph, would not Christ and His Apostles have known of it? And if so, what then? FRED T. TAPSCOTT, 3342 Whittier Avenue, Victoria, B.C., May 26, 1935.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

MAKING ENTRIES
The more one learns about the play of the cards at contract bridge, the more one realizes how very important it is to pay due attention to entries. Most of the fine plays which I discuss in this column from time to time would be impossible if the proper line of communications were not always open between two partners. Fineness, skill, establishment, squeezes and almost every other device of the game leans heavily upon the right to lead, which no player ever has without an entry to his hand.

It is just as important to prevent the opponents from making full use of their own entry cards as to make the most of your own entries. In today's hand, the old "second-hand low" rule is disregarded. In order to rob an opponent of an entry.

2. Now, even with a minimum in honor-tricks, South jumps one-trick to show his great playing strength. This bid is not forcing, but is a strong invitation to North to make some bid unless his hand is worthless.

THE PLAY
West, fearing to lead one of his tenace suits, or the club suit which had been bid by North, chose the spade ten as his opening lead. A trump from a worthless holding is often a very fine protective lead, to make time and wait for the lead to come to your tenace holdings in other suits.
East won the first trick with the ace of spades and returned the heart deuce. South's queen and West's ace were played; West continued with the heart jack and South won and cleared trumps. South now led a losing heart and a losing diamond; his only hope of making his contract, since he had lost two tricks already, was to find some entry to dummy to discard one of his losers. He therefore tried a deceptive play, first cashing the club king and then leading a low diamond towards the dummy. He hoped that West, if he held the ace, would play low and win a future opportunity to capture the king. But West was equal to the occasion; he went up with his diamond ace. Now

George "Hyas Kloshe" Woollett Is Retiring From Coasting Ships

Serving the Catering Department of the B.C.C.S. for Years, He Becomes Manager of Cameron Lake Chalet

Chief Steward George Woollett, recently of the Ss. Princess Norah, who for forty-six years has greeted and ministered to the comfort of travelers on the boats of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company and the Canadian Pacific is saying farewell to his shipmates, having been relieved from the sea, but as he is to continue with the railway company in another capacity, his many friends will be interested to know he will be located at Cameron Lake Chalet, at which place he has been appointed manager.

James A. Kennedy, general superintendent of the E. & N. Railway, has made a wise choice, and motorists from Victoria who have known Mr. Woollett's hospitality are certain to make it their pleasure and business to call at Cameron Lake Chalet and renew acquaintance with a man they have known so long and so well and respected so highly.

Chief Steward Woollett's long service has more to render it notable than mere time. He started with the old Ss. Maude, and she was as far removed from modern steamship comfort as imagination may conceive. The Maude was succeeded by the Ss. Queen City, another of those gone to the heaven of discarded hulks, and George Woollett served as steward of the Queen City.

WELL REMEMBERED

Veterans will well remember the Queen City. She was like Kipling's famous tramp, "Bluff in the bows and plenty of storage aft." Kipling said of his tramp that "She would neither steam nor steer," and added for good measure something about how she was painted. The Queen City would steam, sometimes, but always leisurely, and perhaps some good memories will recall how Kipling's tramp was painted. In any event, the memories will be the ancient Queen City.

Then came the Ss. Tees. The Tees was "no room," but if one remembers the steward's department of the vessel, one will also remember how surprisingly good it was, and that indicates again that George Woollett was its head.

Then came a newer dispensation, marking an epoch in the history and development of the B.C.C.S. Service of the Canadian Pacific. The Ss. Callam, of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, founded in the Strait of Fuca, in the late winter of 1903, and an urgent request came from Seattle and Victoria

Anticipate Mutual Agreement for Salmon Prices

VANCOUVER, May 28 (CP).—British Columbia canners have opened negotiations with the British Columbia Fishermen's Protective Association and the Japanese Fishermen's Association in connection with blueback salmon prices, and anticipating a mutual agreement will be reached shortly. Authorities also expect the prices to be agreed upon will be announced within a few days.

Negotiations which have been carried on between the canners and the fishermen and Cannery Workers' Industrial Union for the past two weeks have been discontinued. The canners state they could not meet the union's demand for raw fish prices, which were in excess of the selling price of the canned goods, allowing nothing for manufacturing costs, labor and selling charges.

That the Canadian Pacific enter the Ss. Princess Beatrice to the Victoria and Seattle route. The Canadian Pacific, eager to give the new departure worthy recognition and prestige, appointed George Woollett her steward.

EXCELLENT STORY

An excellent story relative to the service provided by the Princess Beatrice, hinges on an interview with Anna Held, the famous French actress, who with her company used the Beatrice from Seattle to Victoria and return, a few weeks after the service was established. Miss Held called upon the agent of the Canadian Pacific at Seattle to express her delight and surprise at the service she provided, and in the conversation said, as only Anna Held could say, "Mon Dieu! mon Dieu! It was plus grande. I think I was in Paris. Certainly, mon Dieu, see chief excellent!" Miss Held was assured of her guests, but was not told that the chef was imported from China and not from France, as she surmised, nor that George Woollett, not a Frenchman, was the genius of her pleasurable experience.

Mr. Woollett served in all the steamers that the company has acquired since the Princess Royal was built, and was selected to outfit the Ss. Princess Elaine in Glasgow, and returned to Victoria in her, under the command of Captain Ronald Stuart, now master of the Empress of Britain.

LIKED BY ALL

The traveling public of every class and condition are Mr. Woollett's friends, always in his capacity of steward he has been considerate, kind and ubiquitous. The missionaries of every denomination on the West Coast, and the teachers in charge of the various mission schools along that wild and rugged coast know and revere Woollett, and with reason. While as chief steward on the West Coast route, Mr. Woollett was called upon to minister to the ailing and the injured, and never called in vain, for he is an unusually capable man in any emergency. The Indians along the Island route called him "George Hyas Kloshe," and what more sincere compliment could anyone expect or earn.

The parents of children en route to school at Victoria invariably placed their children in charge of Chief Steward Woollett. His generous, genial and kindly character will never be forgotten by the thousands who have encountered him during his steamboat career.

He is now to continue, ashore, the line of work which has brought him such an enviable reputation, and at Cameron Lake he will have the assistance of his devoted and popular wife. Both were the recipients of beautiful and useful gifts presented with the good wishes of their many friends in the catering department of the B.C.C.S. Service ashore and ashore.

The salvaged goods included trucks, a large Diesel engine and forty tons of general cargo. Captain Armour stated salvaged work is proceeding at Zayas Island, B.C., where the Deppal grounded May 19 and broke in two after an explosion in her hold.

On a dash to the northwest coast of Vancouver Island to assist the Alaska Steamship Company's disabled steamship Lakina, the tug Ironquils, of the Bellingham Tug & Barge Company, left here this afternoon. The Lakina was en route to Ketchikan, and the Ironquils, former navy tug, will tow her to that port. She will reach the steamship's side early Wednesday.

The tug company had no particulars regarding the steamer's condition.

While preparations were under way to dispatch the Ironquils north, the company responded to a call for help from the small freighter Sacken, en route from Seattle to Ketchikan. The Sacken tied up in Coronet Bay, Deception Pass, Monday, and when the tide receded she listed. The tug was dispatched to pump the water from the ship.

Bound in from Rotterdam and London, the Holland-America motorship Damsterdyk, Captain A. J. B. Boman, is expected here Thursday night or early Friday morning. Adam P. Moffat, local representative, stated yesterday. The Damsterdyk will discharge and load cargo here before proceeding to mainland ports to complete.

From California ports, the Pacific Steamship Line's Ss. Emma Alexander is due alongside Rihet Pier tomorrow night. The Emma Alexander will continue to Seattle at midnight.

FOR CLEANING

The Ss. Gray, tender to the whaling fleet, is at present on the marine ways of the Victoria Machinery Depot in the upper harbor. She is being cleaned and painted. The Bay Street firm has also completed the underwater painting and cleaning of the Ss. Princess Joan, which was floated out of the Government Drydock yesterday morning.

The excursion cruise announced for today by Vancouver Island Coach Lines and the Gulf Islands Ferry Company will take in Port Washington, Galiano Island and Mayne Island. Coaches will leave the depot on Broughton Street at 9 o'clock, and the Gy Peak will leave Swartz Bay at 10 o'clock.

EDUCATOR FROM CHINA

Dr. James M. Henry, president of Lingnan University, at Canton, was a passenger aboard the American Mail Line Ss. President McKinley arriving here yesterday morning. Dr. Henry is on his way to New York, and stated his plans for returning to China were more or less indefinite.

Commenting on the situation in China, Dr. Henry stated it was his firm belief that the division which has existed for some time between Canton and Nanking is rapidly adjusting itself and all differences are being settled amicably. Chang Kai-shek, who has been doing splendid work in overcoming the Communist threat, is largely responsible for the rapprochement.

Lingnan University is extending its activities all the time, Dr. Henry said. At the present time there are 1,200 students enrolled. There are two grades of students—intermediate and advanced. The professors are mainly from the United States, but there are several Canadians who are doing fine work.

Miss Lyman D. Green, who was on the staff of The North China Daily News, leading newspaper of Shanghai, came in on the McKinley yesterday, and is en route to her home in Springfield, Mass.

Miss Green stated that she liked the work in the Chinese metropolis, and had been there two years. Business had been very good over there until last Fall, when everyone really began to feel the depression. It is very quiet there at the present time. She is undecided about returning to Shanghai. A newspaper job in the United States would look pretty good to her, she said. She was accompanied by Mrs. Hsieh Lan Hui, a Chinese woman writer, going to Boston.

SHANGHAI POLICE

Two members of the Shanghai Municipal Police arrived here on the liner docking from Far East ports yesterday morning. They were Sergeants Arthur H. May and Jack Mills, who are proceeding to England on furlough.

They get seven months' holiday for every five years of service, they stated. That all the Canadian recruits serving with the police in Shanghai are giving satisfaction was the message they left with newspaper men.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Sister Mary Frederick, who is the chief operating nurse of St. Paul's Hospital, Manila, passed through Victoria yesterday aboard the American Mail liner arriving from the Philippines. She was suffering from a brain tumor, and arrangements were made for getting her to Providence Hospital immediately the ship reached Seattle, where an operation was to be performed. Sister Mary Frederick was accompanied by her sister, Sister Mary de Lourdes, and was treated by the ship's surgeon, Dr. Sparenberger, crossing the Pacific. They went to the Philippines from Osnaburg, N.Y.

SERVED WITH FLEET

MOSHULU IS IN DRYDOCK

Old Sailing Ship Undergoing Cleaning—Damsterdyk And Emma Coming

In tow of the Island Tug & Barge Company's tug Queen and Island Comet, the bark Moshulu reached Esquimalt early yesterday afternoon and was immediately floated into the Dominion Government Drydock, Yarrow's Limited, carrying out the work. The Moshulu appeared to be in excellent condition above the waterline, her masts, spars and rigging looking like new. She was very dirty underneath, however.

Captain G. Boman is the master of the Moshulu, and when she has been cleaned and painted and hoisted up to her anchor in Thetis Cove, he will see to it that the crew is kept busy getting her in shape for September, when she will leave for Australia to load grain for the United Kingdom.

Bound in from Rotterdam and London, the Holland-America motorship Damsterdyk, Captain A. J. B. Boman, is expected here Thursday night or early Friday morning. Adam P. ## EASTBOUND TRAVEL UP

McKinley Brought In Large Passenger List, Heavy Mails and Cargo

From the Philippines, by way of China and Japan ports, the American Mail Line S.S. President McKinley, under the command of Captain J. J. Culbertson, returned to Seattle today with a large list of passengers aboard, landed heavy mails and some 400 tons of general cargo here, including silk for transshipment across Canada, destined for England. The ship proceeded to Seattle at 11 o'clock.

Among the passengers disembarking here were Miss Emma R. Kaufmann, secretary of the Tokio Y.W.C.A., bound for her home in Kitchener, Ontario, where she will spend a long vacation, and Mrs. S. Yamamura, teacher at the Tokio Y.W.C.A., en route to Oakland, where she expects to take a study course at Mills College.

Travelers going through to Seattle included J. J. Culbertson, real estate man of Oklahoma City, returning from a pleasure tour of the Orient, accompanied by Mrs. Culbertson; Mrs. H. T. Gwlad, wife of an official of the Pacific Commercial Company, Manila, accompanied by her family, paying an extended visit to the United States; Mrs. Johanna Mason, of Buckley, Washington, returning from a pleasure trip to the Orient; E. D. McKay, Seattle exporter and importer, returning from annual buying trip to Orient; Mrs. H. W. Remington, wife of an official of the Palmolive-Colgate-Peet Soap Company, returning home to Jersey City, following a pleasure tour of the Far East, and F. T. Skov, civil engineer connected with the Standard Vacuum Oil Company, Shanghai, en route to Denmark on furlough.

ALSO ABOARD

Also aboard the McKinley were Mrs. Don Tilling, wife of the general freight agent of the Dollar Lines at Shanghai, on a holiday trip to the United States, accompanied by her three young sons; C. I. Bosworth, retired summer business man, on his way home from a pleasure tour of Japan, accompanied by Mrs. Bosworth; Mrs. J. R. Branch, wife of a prominent Shanghai surgeon, going to Macao, Georgia, for an extended holiday; Chan Wing, import and export merchant of New York, returning from a buying trip to China; P. Equivel, professor in the University of the Philippines, on his way to Philadelphia for hospital treatment; Miss Jane Ford, tourist from New York, returning home, and Harry Batten, manufacturer's foreign representative, Seattle, returning from a business trip to the Far East, accompanied by Mrs. Batten.

Others coming in on the big liner were Howard S. Maling, mining dealer of Kent, returning from a business tour of China; Mrs. M. D. De Marchis, Kobe, going to New York; Mrs. A. A. D. Murphy, resident of Shanghai, traveling to England, where she will make her home; Miss Shum Tachiu, Hongkong, Chinese student en route to Baylor College for Women, Texas; Miss R. H. Sue, Portland, returning from a visit to Hongkong, and C. G. Watkins, Winchester, England, on a world tour, accompanied by Mrs. Watkins.

DEATH OF NRA CAUSES CONFUSION

small tobacco shops slashing the price of cigarettes to eleven cents and of skidding liquor prices. A Boston report told of price cutting of 5 to 10 per cent by two companies. Numerous code authorities reiterated the Reichberg plea, and several reported they had received assurances that the status quo would be maintained. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Manufacturers' Association issued similar appeals.

LABOR LEADERS GATHER

Labor leaders hurried to Washington to see what could be gathered from the wreckage of the NRA. They assembled at A.P. of L. headquarters with President William Green. There were widespread hints of strikes, especially in textiles and coal, if operators depart from code wage and hour provisions.

A complete revision of pending amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration Act was ordered. Subjected to close scrutiny, too, were the Administration's Social Security Bill, the measure to abolish or regulate public utility holding companies, and the Wagner Labor Disputes Act already hearing partial White House sanction.

Legal lights of the alcohol administration studied the predicament of codes through which the Government regulates the liquor industry.

The big chiefs of the Administration's legal staff gathered in an office of Attorney-General Homer Cummings.

PLANS ARE INDEFINITE
The conference was said to have been devoted to a discussion of the court's opinion, and plans for the future were reported still far short of the stage at which they could be put on paper.

Later, Senator Pat Harrison let it be known the possibility of a volunteer plan was under consideration among several other ideas. It was assumed the pressure of public opinion would be counted upon to bring recalcitrant firms into line under such a system.

COUNTERFEITER JAILED

VANCOUVER, May 28 (CP).—Lee Yuk Gun, Chinese, was sentenced to three months in jail by Police Magistrate H. S. Wood today, on a charge of having counterfeited materials in his possession.

VISITED VICTORIA TWENTY YEARS AGO ON HONEYMOON TRIP

Twenty years after their first visit to Victoria, which was on the occasion of their honeymoon, Dr. and Mrs. David Roberg, San Jose, are again in the city.

They say time has added additional attractions to Victoria, and both expressed the wish that some day they might settle here. After motoring up the Coast, the visitors crossed to the Island from Bellingham.

During their stay in the city they will reside at the Empress Hotel.

WOULD CUT OFF GASOLINE DUTY

Robert J. Jameson Advocates Keeping Only Dumping Duty as Protection

Robert J. Jameson, of the Jameson Motors, does not believe the two duties on gasoline coming into Canada are needed. He would keep the dumping duty, but wipe out the ordinary 2-1-2 cents a gallon. He also takes the position that the dealers in automobiles and repair shops had better be kept in the practice of opening up all kinds of gas stations that could not pay their way on that line alone, and which could not make taxes on the property purchased, out of the sale of gasoline.

The abuses he complained of raised the price of gasoline, and the public had to pay the additional price which had to be imposed. Mr. Jameson, testifying before the Fuel Commission at the Courthouse here yesterday, said that on the basis of gasoline retailing at 21 cents a gallon in Seattle, he figured that in estimating the price of imported gas from the United States, the price laid down here would be 15.36 cents a gallon. The road tax would bring it up to 22.36 cents and the shrinkage owing to the volatile nature of gas would be 2 per cent.

To C. H. O'Halloran, counsel for the commission, witness said that if the 2-1-2-cent duty were taken off, he thought it should make the difference of this duty in the cost here.

KEEP DUMP DUTY

With respect to the dumping duty, witness stated that while he regarded it as a considerable hardship to Canadian purchasers, yet he believed the dump was equitable. If the dump were retained, the duty taken off, the refineries in Canada should not be injuriously affected.

To Mr. O'Halloran witness said that he did not know enough about the situation in the United States to make a recommendation. The Canadians were doing the work at a reasonable profit.

On the point of the gas stations, Mr. Jameson declared the dealers back in 1915 put in gas tanks and each supplied the needs of the buyers of cars from that dealer. With repair shops attached, the needs of equipping the cars and keeping them in good order were well filled, said the witness.

Then the gas companies went in and erected stations, cutting the dealers out of a part of their legitimate business in supplying gas and accessories, and when repair shops were put in by the companies the dealers were deprived of this trade in part.

PRICES GO UP

Before the service stations went in, gas was sold at about 17 or 18 cents. With the huge capital expenditures which followed the putting in of elaborate gas stations, the price went up. The cost of manufacture in gas had improved since so that there should have been lower prices expected.

The automobile dealers in Victoria felt that the present price of gasoline was about the breaking point and higher prices meant fewer sales of automobiles and less gas sold. Gasoline was part and parcel of the business of the sellers of automobiles. The manufacturers should not sell to the consumer, it was argued. They should sell to the retailers. In his opinion, the eight or ten dealers in automobiles and the independent repairmen were able to take care of the business in a gas line in the city.

W. L. McFadden, in testimony in the afternoon with respect to the measuring of fuel oil, setting out that he had found shortages in the supply using the method of measuring the tanks. He instanced a case of forty gallons short on 700 gallons sold.

The commission will resume its sittings in Vancouver this morning.

City and District

Hollywood Park—The Gonzales Community Association at Monday's meeting of the City Council paid to the city $165 on account of its share toward the cost of creating Hollywood Park.

Band Concerts—The parks committee has been authorized by the City Council to set the dates for the band concerts in Beacon Hill Park, and also any other band concerts that may be held in other city parks.

Office Change—Another suggestion for the completion of consolidating city departments was made yesterday by Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter. Instead of undertaking elaborate structural changes, he suggests that the treasury staff be transferred to the old assessor's office. This would give more room for the assessor and collector's staff.

Public Signs—Featuring seagulls in flight to emphasize the slogan, "Follow the Birds to Victoria," attractive new road signs have been placed at vantage points along the No. 101 Pacific Coast Highway by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. One is at Salinas, between San Francisco and San Diego, and five others in Oregon and Washington.

Meeting Tomorrow—Brigadier Dailiel, of Vancouver headquarters, divisional commander of the Salvation Army forces in Southern British Columbia, will lead a public meeting in the Army Hall, upstairs, corner of Constance Avenue and Esquimalt Road, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Adjutant and Mrs. Ede and other city officers will assist and a band from the Broad Street Citadel will be in attendance.

Discuss Superannuation—Officials of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities will interview the Provincial Secretary at 11 o'clock this morning in connection with superannuation legislation. The municipalities have undertaken to suggest special legislation covering civic pensions, but first wish to know what the Province will take on past settlements. It is explained. The conference today is for that purpose.

Trial Is Resumed—In the Supreme Court here yesterday, Mr. Justice Lucas was occupied with the trial of C. F. Foxall vs. Massie and Renwick, with C. L. Harrison for the plaintiff and Alfred Bull, K.C., for the defendants. The case is one in which the plaintiff seeks damages from the defendants, arising out of the cancelling of a contract in the insurance business. It is alleged by the plaintiff that the terms of his agreement as an agent with the defendants were not carried out when the cancellation took place and no written discharge was made. The trial will continue today.

Orange Lodge Meets—An enjoyable evening was spent on Monday by the members of Premier L.O.L. 1610, the principal speaker being Wor. Bro. P. Greenides, an Orange man of many years' standing, who gave a lengthy and vivid review of the Battle of the Boyne, also relating some anecdotes respecting Orangeism. Other speakers were the county master, Wor. Bro. W. Ashworth, and Wor. Bro. Pearce. A musical programme consisting of old Orange airs was well rendered by Bro. Watson on his flute, and Wor. Bro. Coles lived the singing with the assistance of his accordion. Refreshments were served. The visitors expressed their appreciation of an enjoyable evening.

Officers of Male Choir Are Chosen

The annual general meeting of the Victoria Male Choir was held Monday night at the Crystal Garden, with the following members being elected, who serve as an executive committee for one year:

President, J. R. Cleator; vice-president, L. W. O'Neill; secretary, J. W. Harris; treasurer, R. Hubbard; librarian, T. Hammond; music, H. Hay; finance, W. Frampton; publicity, C. Lefevre; social, J. Oakman; ways and means, C. W. Wilson.

The meeting opened with amendments to the constitution being adopted, and the election of officers followed. The retiring executive committee was congratulated on completing a successful season's work.

Frank Tupman was re-elected conductor, and J. W. Buckler was again the choice for assistant conductor. Mr. Tupman congratulated the choir on the successful work done in the past season. Regret was expressed for absent members on the sick list. Most ambitious plans were discussed for the coming season. The meeting closed with the singing of a number of choral selections.

PREDICT OVERTHROW OF FRENCH CABINET

So strong was the sentiment that some members urged Edouard Herriot to resign his portfolio as Minister of State.

Just before Germain-Martin told the legislators losses of gold from the Bank of France's vaults totaling 9,000,000,000 francs (about $584,000,000) in the last two months, the bank raised its discount rate from 4 to 6 per cent in another determined effort to halt speculation against France's currency.

In requesting extraordinary powers, Germain-Martin told deputies the bank lost 2,000,000,000 francs between March 29 and May 27, another 3,000,000,000 during the week ended May 24 and 3,000,000,000 more in the last three days.

OMINOUS UTTERANCE
Declaring the Government determined to crush "speculation," and defend the franc by balancing the budget and restoring credit, the Finance Minister said ominously:

"If you refuse to see the gravity of these circumstances, tomorrow Mr. Minister of Finance will be able to resist the pressure against the franc and the state's credit."

He revealed the Government must borrow 15,000,000,000 francs (about $960,000,000) during the year. Of this 7,000,000,000 already has been authorized, not including 1,500,000,000 for military expenditures.

He blamed the franc's plight partly on the tense situation caused by Germany's rearmament, devaluation of Belgium's currency and general world unrest.

RESIGNATION POSSIBLE
Should powerful opposition develop to the Government plan cause the Chamber committee to vote against it, parliamentary circles said Flaminio might decide to resign.

There was some talk of calling Gaston Doumergue back, although doubt was expressed that he would consent. Speculation also centred about Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister, despite his known desire to retain the foreign portfolio.

OAKLANDS CADET CORPS INSPECTED

Captain L. M. Black, of Work Point Barracks, Reviews Smart School Company

With snap and precision that spoke of months of training, the Oakland School Cadet Corps, commanded by Cadet Captain Farmer, went on parade yesterday afternoon and was inspected by Captain L. M. Black, of Work Point Barracks, who highly complimented the boys on their showing.

Following the smart march past the band led by the school's pipe band, Cadet Captain Farmer put his company through several manoeuvres, then lined up the cadets for an exhibition of physical drill that drew enthusiastic applause from the 200 parents and 700 students witnessing the display.

Fine demonstrations of first aid work and signalling were also given. For the past two years, the Oakland School Corps has held the I.O.D.E. Cup, emblematic of the provincial championship in cadet work.

A. J. Stevenson is cadet instructor at the school, and the platoon commanders are: Thomas Smith, William Bowles, Jack Packford and Fred Billabourough.

What Today Means

"GEMINI"

If May 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 2:15 to 3:15 p.m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m.—The danger periods are from 6:15 to 8:15 a.m. from 1:15 to 2:15 p.m., and from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m.

It may not be wise to make plans a virtue today, if you find someone trying to take undue advantage of your consideration regarding a personal affair. It might be well to pin a friend down to a definite date, should one suggest a vague or indefinite engagement.

Avoid allowing personal interests of a social nature to interfere with business appointments, as complications may develop. Today should be auspicious for the arbitration of legal or business differences if entered into with a spirit of fairness.

Influences on this date will probably incline the average person to be generous. It is likely to be dangerous for scandal mongers today, for a desire, which will be more or less generally prevalent, for fair play, may prompt unpleasant action on the part of listeners. Married and engaged couples, as well as those engaged in Cupid's game, will display good sense if they avoid starting any sort of an argument during the next twenty-four hours.

If a woman and May 29 is your birthday, you should be watchful that, passing such strength of character as you do, it does not cause you to expect too much of those who are unfortunately weak, when it comes to the way of the flesh. Tolerance is an important virtue to cultivate. You have the ability to successfully put over anything you set your heart on doing.

You must not let ambition tempt you to expand too rapidly, either in a business or social way. If you will go about things with deliberation, there is little chance of your making mistakes. Secretarial or office work, public stenography, accountancy, selling, as well as writing, may enable you to find the gateway to opportunity. You should be very happily married.

The child born on May 29 usually, when it reaches school age, has to learn through experience that pugnaciousness does not pay. Parents need have little concern about it not acquiring this knowledge.

If a man and May 29 is your natal day, you may enjoy engaging in rather acrimonious discussions. If you will overcome this desire, you will gain in popularity, and find the climb to the top of the ladder much easier. Politics, medicine, law, educational or literary work, as well as salesmanship, may enable you to gratify your ambition.

Canadian Ideals Form Subject of Inspiring Talk

Dr. Henrietta Anderson Addresses Enthusiastic Gathering of Women's Canadian Club at Empress Hotel—Higher Sense of Service and Need of Spiritual Background Required

A GREATER spirit of national unity; a deeper feeling for the need of culture and the essential qualities; a higher sense of service to one's country and to the people of one's country; a realization of the need of real spiritual background—these, in brief, summarize the points emphasized by Dr. Henrietta Anderson in her inspiring talk on "Canadian Ideals" given before a warmly appreciative Women's Canadian Club audience at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon.

A happy admixture of the serious and the humorous, coupled with a clear, incisive, and convincing manner, made this one of the most inspiring talks of the year. Dr. Anderson throughout stressed the idea that spiritual values were much more important than the material, and that character and capacity to see and appreciate beauty meant more than wealth or worldly success.

Greek Princess in South

—Central Press Photograph.

Charmingly unsophisticated, Princess Katherine of Greece, twenty-one-year-old daughter of the late King Constantine and Queen Sophie, whose first thought on visiting Hollywood, recently, was the question of whether she could gain admission to a film studio, the princess put her at ease speedily. During her American tour the royal Hellenic visitor is traveling incognito as "Miss Katherine Constantine."

Americans as individuals. They waited in vain to hear from the press and their policies. They were worthy of a much better press and much better policies. The one thing they had all seemed to be impressed with in their own country was the number of millions of bushels of wheat that Canada was exporting, the millions of tons of ore that were being sent out of the country. She could not see that this was any reason to boast of. She would rather not see all that going out of the country, and would prefer seeing more people coming into the country to use those products.

Nevertheless, running through the warp and woof of their being, there was a deep-rooted and deep-seated Americanism. Canadians might feel sometimes that this was overdone, but there was an idealistic sense of service to their country, a desire to be of value to their country, even in their anxiety to save their eyesight, their hearing, their whole physical efficiency.

ANTI "GLORIFICATION"
At this point Dr. Anderson quite humorously indicated her strong dislike of organized glorification of nationality. If she had her way, she would make it illegal for any nationality other than Canadians to meet in groups for such purpose, and would begin with the abolishing of Caledonian societies, "the most pernicious of the lot," and conclude with the dispersing of the Native Sons. In the United States she had never met with such a thing as a Scotch-American; it was equally out of place that there should be such a thing as a Scotch-Canadian, she contended.

Canadians should realize some of their great advantages. Coming to Victoria with the memory of a school in an overcrowded and insanitary part of the East End of London, she had been deeply moved by a sense of the beauty and healthfulness of this newer country.

MATERIALISM
Recalling a convention of young people she had attended in the West, Dr. Anderson said she had the subject of peace, when he had not yet achieved peace in his own home.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME
Mrs. E. S. Farr moved the vote of thanks to Dr. Anderson, who was presented by Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, the president, with a bouquet of carnations and roses. The afternoon's musical programme was particularly attractive. Gwen Woolcock, the young joint winner of the Women's Canadian Club Cup at the Musical Festival, playing on the piano Mozart's "Allegro B Flat," and "Study in A Minor," by Muller, and Mrs. H. L. Campbell, soprano, and Mrs. F. G. Aldous, contralto, singing a charming cycle of Brahms numbers, with Mrs. Conyers as accompanist.

Press Women Having Busy Time in East

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP).—The national executive of the Canadian Women's Press Club sat today, with Mrs. Elizabeth Bailey Price, of Vancouver, presiding over the meeting. Sessions of the triennial of the C.W.P.C. will open tomorrow and continue until Saturday.

The city is having a luncheon tomorrow in honor of the 125 delegates of the C.W.P.C. who are attending the convention. The luncheon will be held at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, when the host will be P. D. Ross, of The Ottawa Journal, and the speaker, Mr. Gratian O'Leary, editorial writer of that paper.

Thursday is newspaper day, when outstanding writers will present short reports. Luncheon will be held at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, when the host will be P. D. Ross, of The Ottawa Journal, and the speaker, Mr. Gratian O'Leary, editorial writer of that paper.

AT RIDEAU HALL
In the afternoon a reception will be held at Rideau Hall, when the delegates will be received by the Governor-General and the Countess of Beesborough. In the evening a reception will be held at the Dominion Archives, when guests will be received by Hon. and Mrs. C. H. Cahan.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will entertain the delegates at luncheon on Friday.

In the afternoon election of officers will take place. Harry S. Southam, of The Ottawa Citizen, and Mrs. J. H. Dunlop, of The Montreal Star, will receive the delegates at their home, "Casa Loma," at tea Saturday morning the business session will continue.

Clubs-Societies

Cowichan W.A.
The W.A. to the Cowichan Hospital Association held a well-attended meeting at the Nurses' Home, Duncan, on Monday afternoon. Mrs. K. P. Duncan occupied the chair in the absence, through illness, of the president, Mrs. G. H. Savage. A report was submitted by the committee in charge of the annual crusade for membership in the District Hospital Association. Twenty-three canvassers had turned in their collections, amounting to $495.54, with South Cowichan and Cherry Point districts still to be heard from. This sum does not include subscriptions paid direct to the bank nor those paid in at the hospital on Hospital Sunday. The auxiliary decided by unanimous vote to turn over its promised 15 per cent of collections to the mortgage redemption fund. Committees in charge of the hospital garden fete reported final arrangements, and it is hoped a substantial sum will be realized toward building the children's ward. No meetings will be held during the Summer, any business which may arise is to be dealt with by the executive. Tea was served after the meeting by Mrs. J. E. Saunders, Mrs. G. Colk and Mrs. S. R. Kirkham.

Bridge Club Meets
The members of the "Doubling" Bridge Club held a delightful supper party on Monday evening at Holly's Restaurant, Fort Street. The attractive lace-covered supper table was centred with a graceful arrangement of schizanthus, lighted orange tapers completing the pretty setting. Following supper, bridge was played, the first prize being won by Mrs. G. D. Clifford; the second and third going to Mrs. W. W. Laing and Mrs. G. H. Bowden, respectively. Those present were: Mrs. D. Burnett, Mrs. W. W. Laing, Mrs. G. H. Bowden, Mrs. R. Duncan, Mrs. W. J. Morrow, Mrs. J. Robison, Mrs. W. Fowler, Mrs. J. Horne, Mrs. G. D. Clifford, Mrs. J. Peters, Mrs. F. E. Tobin and Mrs. M. Murphy, of Prince Rupert.

Seropitist Club
The Seropitist Club and the Royal Club held a joint dinner meeting on Friday at The Anchor, age, Brentwood Bay. The dinner will be in the form of a birthday celebration to commemorate the fourth anniversary of the formation of the Seropitist Club and also to celebrate the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty the King. All Seropitist members are asked to meet at the clubroom at 6 o'clock sharp on Friday evening. Cars will leave promptly.

Daughters of Pity
Miss Kathleen Roberts presided at the monthly meeting of the Daughters of Pity held last night at the Nurses' Home of the Jubilee Hospital. It was decided to hold the June meeting in the form of a dinner. Miss Kathleen Roberts and Miss Irene Bannerman were appointed to arrange the supper. A letter from Miss Mitchell was re-

Little Arctic Is a Popular Rendezvous

The holiday spirit was at its height on Saturday night as 150 dancers held a gay time at the Little Arctic, Cordova Bay. The race drivers and track officials from the Willows were guests of honor, receiving much applause for their thrilling performance on the speedway, and were introduced to the crowd during intermission. Prizes were won by Miss Marjorie Thompson, Mr. W. Jamieson and Mr. Jack Smith.

Next Saturday members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club will be guests of honor, with Mr. W. D. "Bill" Carter as master of ceremonies.

JUNIOR CATHOLIC LEAGUE

A bridge and five hundred card party in aid of the St. Ann's Girl Guide Corps will be held this evening at the parish hall on Blanchard Street. This will be under the convener'ship of the Junior Catholic Women's League.

Two-Piano Recital Is Delightful

The charming little auditorium of St. Ann's Academy was the scene, last evening, of a delightful two-piano recital by Miss Gwen Harper and Edgar Holloway, two gifted musicians who have given much pleasure with their combined artistry on previous occasions this season, and by Miss Dorothy Parsons, soprano, assisting artist.

Sponsored by the sister superior and the music department, the programme was heard by a most attentive and appreciative audience of the Academy High School students, music pupils and friends, and at the close of the concert the artists were entertained at an informal buffet supper in the recreation room, the resident pupils having charge of the serving.

THE PROGRAMME

The programme opened with a group of three organ preludes by Bach and Mozart's Sonata in D, all arranged as two-piano duets. Other numbers in the attractive programme given by the pianists were three Schumanns by Arensky, which seemed to be especial favorites with the audience; a group of Brahms' waltzes; "Hark! Hark! The Lark" and Strauss' "Blue Danube." The popularity of the Arensky numbers inspired the duettists to add, as their encore, "Romance" by the same composer. In the playing of all these they exhibited a most finished ensemble style, being completely in rapport and playing with the confidence of polished preparation.

Miss Parsons' vocal group was also greatly enjoyed, her numbers being "Dreams" (Wagner), "Pluk! This Little Flower" and "Swedish Folk Song," most artistically interpreted and disclosing fine vocal technique. Her accompanist was Edward Parsons.

I.O.D.E. Activities

Allies Chapter

The regent, standard-bearer and members of the Allies Chapter visited the schools of the North Saanich district on Empire Day. The schools visited were Deep Cove, Sidney and North Saanich. At each school the party was entertained with Empire Day programmes. The educational secretary, Mrs. Schilling, gave a short talk at each school. The regent, Mrs. George McLean, presented to each school a Jubilee copy of The Illustrated London News, containing the history of the twenty-five years of King George's reign. A further copy of the same paper, showing the Jubilee celebrations, will also be presented. The ceremonies at each school opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with the National Anthem.

Radio Programmes

Summary of Schedule of Victoria and Other Pacific Coast Stations

TODAY

8:45 a.m.—The Columbia network will again span the Atlantic to bring dialers a word picture of the gigantic new liner, the Normandie, as she leaves France on her maiden voyage to the United States.—KOL, KVI.

11:30 a.m.—A remarkable broadcast spanning an ocean, continent and 400 years of time has been arranged by the Columbia network. The blast of the whistle on the Normandie, just on her maiden voyage, will release a radio impulse which will set a bell ringing atop the ancient San Diego mission. The bell has not rung for 400 years. The broadcast will be one of the ceremonies attached to the opening of the California Pacific International Exposition.—KOL, KVI.

12:15 p.m.—Ken Carpenter and Don Wilson, two N.B.C. announcers, with portable transmitters, will take dialers on a radio trip through the San Diego Exposition grounds.—KOMO or KJR.

6 p.m.—With Perle Grofe's orchestra supplying the music, Burns and Allen will be heard from Victoria on this new time.—KOL, KVI, KSL.

6:30 p.m.—Del Riego's "Honing," "Kingdom Comin'" and "I'm Troubled in Mind," "Zamboanga" and Romberg's "My First Love, My Last Love" will be sung by Gene Baker, Columbia baritone, in his programme with Howard Barlow and the Columbia Symphony Orchestra.—KOL, KVI, KSL.

7:45 p.m.—The Columbia radio news.—CFCF.

7:45 p.m.—More broadcasts from the San Diego Exposition by the Columbia network are scheduled at this time. Prominent movie stars and officials of the exposition will speak from various points on the grounds.—KOL, KVI, KSL.

8 p.m.—"Marching Song," a new composition by Peter van Steeden, will be played by the maestro and his orchestra on the "Town Hall Tonight" feature starring Fred Allen.—KOMO.

INDUCT OFFICERS OF LOCAL COUNCIL

Many Present as Royal Arcanum Officials Installed—Ceremony Is Impressive

A large attendance of members of the Royal Arcanum, a fraternal organization, gathered at the Royal Arcanum, at the Elks' Hall on Monday evening to witness the installation of officers for the coming year. The impressive ceremony was conducted by Deputy Grand Orator Carl Stocker, assisted by Deputy Grand Guide H. J. Applegate. The following members were duly installed in their respective offices: Regent, D. R. Park; past regent, W. Jones; vice-regent, P. A. Willis; orator, D. Philpott; secretary, D. W. Spence; treasurer, K. T. Hughes; collector, J. J. Stewart; chaplain, W. D. Murgatroyd; guide, R. H. Boothie; warden, W. B. Revercombe; sentry, W. Dinmore; trustees, W. G. Kerr, H. Warburton and W. Walters.

CHARTER MEMBER
The meeting was honored with the presence of W. H. Jones, the only surviving charter member who has been with the order for over forty years.

The business of the meeting being over, a banquet was enjoyed by the members, interesting speeches being made by Brothers H. J. Applegate, D. W. Spence, D. R. Park, C. W. Stocker and W. Jones in reply to the toast of brotherly love. The banquet was supplied by J. Haggart and E. Fullerton, with their piano accompaniment. Bert White and his unique collection of violins, and E. Crookford, magician, puzzled all with his sleight-of-hand tricks.

Travel Bargains Proving Popular To Coast Points

Another long holiday week-end looms up for British Columbians with Monday, June 3, set aside as a national holiday in honor of the King's birthday. Low week-end fares are being offered on the Canadian Pacific's B.C. Coast steamship service between Victoria and Vancouver, Nanaimo and Vancouver, Powell River and Vancouver and Victoria and Seattle.

Tickets will be honored for the going trip from last sailings, Friday, May 31, to last sailings, Sunday, June 2, with a return limit to include last sailings Monday, June 3. Judging by holiday travel over the May 6 Jubilee and May 24 week-ends, British Columbia's travelling public will not be slow to take advantage of the latest week-end travel bargain, Canadian Pacific officials stated.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Buster Bear's Disappointment

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Buster Bear didn't know what sap was, but he did know that that sweet water which he found in the shiny things hanging to the maple trees was the very finest water he ever had tasted. You know, Buster Bear is very, very fond of sweets. That is why that sap which he thought was water tasted so good to him.

After he had emptied that first pail he straightaway went looking for more. Some of the pails were nearly empty, for they had been set late in the afternoon the day the sap had started to run. But several pails were half full, and these Buster emptied. These were the pails Farmer Brown's Boy had found on the ground the day the sap had started to run.

The next night Buster started out just as soon as it was dark. He went straight to the trees where he had found it the night before. There wasn't any. He looked into pail after pail, to find no more than a few drops in the bottom of each.

You see, Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown had collected the sap the very last thing that afternoon.

Now the trees Buster had visited were the farthest from the little sugar house. Ever since the terrible frost Buster had had at the little sugar house a year ago, when he had broken in to steal sugar and syrup, he had kept away from the trees. Now as he went from pail to pail, hoping to find one full of that sweet water, he was led nearer and nearer to the little sugar house. Presently he stopped and sniffed and his lips rolled back in an ugly way. He smelled smoke. He stole a little nearer until he heard voices. You see, Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were working away into the night boiling the sap into syrup.

Buster Bear growled a deep, rumbling, grumbly growl as he glared in the direction of that sugar house. He didn't care for the noise. Now he deliberately turned his back and continued to hunt for pails that were set beyond hearing distance of that little sugar house. He found a lot of them, but in none was there enough of that delicious sweet water for a real honest drink.

Buster began to lose his temper. With every pail he visited he lost a little more. Foolishly he blamed the pails for being empty. Finally he reached out a great paw and struck one of them. Away it flew, clattering on the ground. He did the same thing to the next, and the next, for his temper was growing worse and worse all the time because of his disappointment.

BARNEY ROSS GAINS DECISIVE FIGHT VICTORY

Bob Johnson Hits Eleventh Circuit Drive of Campaign

Smash Helps Athletics to Beat White Sox, 6-5—Greenberg and Rogell Garner Two Homers Each as Tigers Beat Yankees, 8-3—Pirates and Cincinnati Reds Come Through

AMERICAN LEAGUE
PHILADELPHIA, May 28 (AP).—A barrage of home runs, including Bob Johnson's eleventh of the season, gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 6 to 5 decision over the Chicago White Sox today. The Sox held their league lead, however, as the Yankees also lost.

Johnny Marcum, who held the league leaders to eight hits in his first appearance on the mound in two weeks, cracked out the first homer in the second, Pinky Higgins followed with the second in the third, driving in three runs, and then Johnson came through in the seventh with what proved to be the deciding counter. R. H. E. Chicago 5 8 0 Philadelphia 6 10 1

Batteries—Lyons, Wyatt and Sewell; Marcum and Berry.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—Paced by Hank Greenberg and Bill Rogell, each of whom connected with two home runs, the Detroit Tigers pounded out an 8 to 3 decision over the New York Yankees today, for their first victory of the three-game series. Greenberg and Rogell accounted for all of the Tiger runs, driving in four runs each. In addition to his tenth and eleventh circuit blows, which put him in a tie for the American League lead with Bob Johnson, of the Athletics, the champions' big first sacker drove out a double and a single in five times at bat.

DETROIT, May 28 (AP).—The last place St. Louis Browns whaled "Lefty" Grove and Wes Ferrell for thirteen hits that totaled twenty-five bases today, while beating the Red Sox, 6-5, for the rubber game in the series. R. H. E. St. Louis 6 13 0 Boston 5 11 1

Batteries—Walker, Coffman, Knott and Henley; Grove, Wes Ferrell and Berg.

INDIANS DOWN SENATORS
CLEVELAND, May 28 (AP).—Cleveland got to Buck Newsum for three runs in the eighth inning, to overcome an early Washington lead and beat the Senators in the last game of the series here, today, 6 to 4. R. H. E. Cleveland 6 11 0 Washington 4 12 1

Batteries—Harder and Pitylak; Newsum and Bolton.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
PITTSBURGH, May 28 (AP).—With Big Jim Weaver pitching a hit ball and fanning seven, the Pittsburgh Pirates moved a little closer to the first division today, as they turned back the Phillies, 3 to 1, to win the series two games to one.

Although the victory left the Pirates still in fifth place, it cut the advantage of the idle Cardinals to seven percentage points. R. H. E. Philadelphia 1 6 1 Pittsburgh 3 11 1

Batteries—Prezulo, Blinn, Davis, Prim and Todd; Weaver and Paden.

Continues Win Streak
CINCINNATI, May 28 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds ran up their longest winning streak in about four years—six straight games—today as they fell on Flint Rhem and Ben Cantwell for eighteen hits and defeated the Boston Braves 13 to 4.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
BALTIMORE, May 28 (AP).—Syracuse at Albany, night game, postponed; rain.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
KANSAS CITY, May 28 (AP).—Postponements: National—Brooklyn at Chicago, rain; New York at St. Louis, rain; four games scheduled.

Mount Stephen Club To Resume Outdoor Shows Friday Night

EXCEPTIONALLY popular with boxing and wrestling fans last year, the outdoor shows of the Mount Stephen Athletic Club will be resumed for the 1935 season Friday evening, officials of the organization announced yesterday. The usual mixed programme of boxing and wrestling will be presented, with the first bout commencing at 8:30 o'clock. The outdoor arena has been renovated and many new seats have been installed ready for the gala opening Friday evening. Coachable Louis Calien, popular instructor, will again be in charge of the boys and will also act as matchmaker.

FIVE CHAMPS ELIMINATED IN O.C. GOLF

Defending Titleholder Beaten In British Women's Tournament

NEWCASTLE, County Down, May 28 (CP).—Five champions, including the last of the invaders, met defeat as the British women's golf championship progressed to the quarter-finals today. Previously, Miss Ada MacKenzie, four-time Canadian champion, and Miss Diana Fishwick were eliminated.

The last overseas challenger, Miss T. French, French champion, went out in the third round, beaten 4 and 2 by youthful Pamela Barton, runner-up in a second round match by 3 and 2, and in the same round Wanda Morgan defeated Miss Mary Brown, Argentine champion, 2 and 1.

IRISH CHAMP BEATEN
Eighteen-year-old Clarry Tiersan, Irish girl who eliminated Miss Fishwick, beat Mrs. McCulloch, former Scottish champion, 7 and 5, in the morning, but lost to Miss Mervyn Barton in the third round, one up.

The quarter-finalists are, in order of the draw, Miss Johnson, of Hornsea, and Miss Wanda Morgan, of Rochester, former English champion; Miss Anderson, of Craigie Hill, and Miss Newell, twenty-three-year-old Derbyshire magistrate; Miss R. Morgan, of Bournemouth, and Miss Mervyn Barton, of mid-Surrey, and Miss Park, of Gullane, and Miss Pam Barton, of the Royal Mid-Surrey.

Other prizes will be given for the runners-up, best gross, low net, first and consolation. The tournament committee of C. Denham, R. MacKenzie, B. R. Cieri and P. H. A. Norton, announced yesterday that post entries will be accepted. The draw and starting times follow:

Boss of Welters Again

BARNEY ROSS

Chicago Jew, who regained the welterweight championship of the world, last night, in the New York Polo Grounds, when he pounded out a great decision over Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver's belting Irishman, who was attempting to keep the crown after taking it from Ross late last Summer. The fight, which lasted the scheduled fifteen rounds, was furious from start to finish with Ross having a decisive edge, the finish. The Associated Press gave Ross ten rounds, four to McLarnin and one even. The crowd boomed the decision.

"Pop" Foster Figures McLarnin Was Robbed

Veteran Manager of Vancouver Lad States Decision Was Plain Case of Robbery—Ross Says It Was Toughest Fight of Career

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—For a youngster who had just won back his world welterweight title, Barney Ross, the flash from Chicago, was the coolest number in his dressing room, as he soaped himself in his shower after tonight's furious fifteen-round battle with Jimmy McLarnin at the Polo Grounds.

Barney's only disappointment was his failure to knock out the Vancouver Irishman, and he attributed this to an injured left hand he said he suffered when he landed an upper cut early in the seventh round.

"It was the toughest fight I ever had," said Barney. "But I believe I would have connected with a haymaker if I hadn't sprained my hand between the thumb and forefinger. After that I had to go easy with the left. It hurt like the dickens."

"Jimmy is a grand little fighter. He was in good shape tonight and gave me more trouble than in either of the other two bouts."

NO FUTURE PLANS
Sam Plan and Art Winch, the new champion's managers, have made no plans for the immediate future. But so far as the exuberant Barney is concerned, he said they can go right out and match him for another go with McLarnin, and also pair him with Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight title.

Over in McLarnin's dressing room a dejected group of handlers surrounded the Canadian boy and wondered how it all happened.

"It was a plain case of robbery," said McLarnin. "I don't remember when we've had a rarer deal. You say the decision was unanimous? Well, if that's so, I don't think I'll ever match the boy in New York again."

"What did they mean putting Dempsey in there to start with?" asked Jimmy's old manager. "He's been friendly with the Ross camp ever since Barney started training."

Mike Jacobs, the promoter, assured Dempsey would not referee, never would have let Jimmy go into the fight if he hadn't had his gloves on.

Jimmy, who smiled wanly during the manager's trade against Dempsey and his fellow officials, was non-committal about retiring, although he said he probably would talk things over with Foster and reach a definite decision in the near future.

ONE MORE CHANCE
The Irishman has said he would want to leave the ring if he failed to hurdle Ross this time. "At that, I'd like to have one more shot at that welter title," he added.

"I think I won nine of the fifteen rounds tonight and had an even fight in several others. Ross may have looked better than before, but he certainly didn't worry me nearly as much as last September."

RENNIE AND TAYLOR CUP FINAL TODAY

Hudson's Bay Soccer Eleven To Battle Spencers at Royal Athletic Park

Leading eleven in the Pendray Cup chase, Spencers and Hudson's Bay, Wednesday Football League squads, will clash in the Rennie & Taylor Cup final this afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock. W. J. Rennie, co-donor of the trophy with the late J. T. Taylor, will kick off.

Victors over the Hudson's Bay in the play-off for the Pendray Cup, symbol of the Wednesday League championship, Spencers will be out at full strength today for the important fixture, and the last time they will oppose the green and gold-sweated boys this season.

Hudson's Bay, winner of the Hayward cup, are just as anxious to take the match and wind up their season's activities with a win over the Diamond "S" aggregation.

In their many fixtures this season the clubs have always provided keen competition, and attracted the big crowds in the mid-week league. Today, with the handsome Rennie & Taylor Cup as the stakes, one of the largest Wednesday afternoon crowds of the season is expected to be on hand to witness the match.

SOUTH AFRICA SCORES AGAIN

Registers Up Sixth Victory Of Tour by Narrow Margin Over Middlesex

LONDON, May 28 (CP).—Leicestershire sprang a surprise in cricket circles today by defeating Lancashire, the champion county, by 129 runs. The match was played at Leicester and marked the second loss of the season for the champions.

First innings victories were won by Surrey over Gloucestershire, Northamptonshire over Glamorgan, Kent over Warwickshire and Nottinghamshire over Somerset.

The South Africans recorded their sixth win of their tour with a narrow victory over Middlesex by two wickets. Eight games have been played by the tourists, two having been drawn.

The scores: Leicestershire, 375 and 69 for seven wickets, declared; Lancashire, 242 and 73 not out.

Surrey, 338 and 243 for eight wickets, declared; Gloucestershire, 308 and 190 for eight.

Northamptonshire, 329 and 157; Glamorgan, 174 and 134 for three wickets (Turnbull 77 not out).

Nottinghamshire, 458 and 124 for three wickets, declared (A. Staples 54 not out, Hardstaff 50 not out); Somerset, 330 and 30 for no wickets; Kent, 247 and 266 for six wickets; Warwickshire, 186, at Birmingham. Rain prevented play today.

South Africans, 202 and 163; Middlesex, 192 and 151 (Crisp four for 146, Langton five for 59; at Lord's).

RECAPTURES TITLE FROM McLARNIN IN FURIOUS STRUGGLE

Chicago Jew Pounds Out Great Verdict Over Vancouver Irishman in New York Ring—Fans Boomed Decision—Ross Is Awarded Ten of Fifteen Rounds by Slim Margin Each

Ross, only man ever to hold both the lightweight and welterweight titles at one time, was punching blindly at times, gaffed like a maulin by the Irishman's terrific left hooks to the body, lefts and rights to the head, but he was always punching, the last to stop.

In the dressing-room afterward, "Pop" Foster, grizzled-old manager of McLarnin from the day he found him, a ninety-pound newboy, in Vancouver, over a dozen years ago, declared this was McLarnin's last fight.

"He won," said "Pop" bitterly, "but just the same it's over. Jimmy has fought his last fight." He made it as brave a finale as the ring could ask of a great warrior, now over a dozen years of service. He went down with all his batteries firing, outlasted by a youngster who, though outweighed three and three-quarter pounds, still had the stamina to set in that extra punch always.

GIVEN TEN ROUNDS
The Associated Press score card gave Ross ten rounds, McLarnin four and called an even, but several of the rounds went to the challenger by the scantiest of margins. A crowd estimated at 31,000, paying $144,080 in gross gate receipts, saw the fight.

Barney said he hurt his left hand in the seventh, and after the eighth, where Jimmy nailed him repeatedly with left hooks to the head, the new champion decided the fancy stuff was over for the night. He waded into McLarnin, started firing furiously and at every opportunity to the body, and while it cost him plenty of punishment, he slowed Jimmy down, hurt him, and showed away four of the last six to clinch the decision. They were so battered and tired in the fifteenth that they did little more than lean on each other, punching instinctively.

Dempsey, who refereed a perfect fight, though he failed to call a palpably low left hook Ross threw in the twelfth, was the object of old man Foster's ire even before the battle ended.

FOSTER OBJECTS
As soon as the former heavyweight champion climbed into the ring in the grey flannels of a referee, "Pop" loosed a terrific bellow, and for a moment ordered gloves removed from Jimmy's hands.

He protested to General John J. Phelan that Dempsey "had been" with the other fellow all the time, but the chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission silenced him.

"Get in there with your man and go about your business," said Phelan. "You couldn't have a square man in there."

It was generally considered Foster, who said he had been promised that Dempsey wouldn't referee, would also retract his decision later to retire McLarnin from the ring and set the stage for the fourth of the Ross series here this Fall.

PRELIMINARIES
Earnest young lightweights, Audy Mirratello, of New York, and Ralph Vona, of Asbury Park, N.J., opened the proceedings with four rough and vapid rounds. Vona won the decision. He weighed 138 3-4 pounds. Mirratello a pound less.

Frankie "Kid" Bruno, a hard-hitting lightweight, was a far better entertainer. He fought Colin Reed, negro sparring partner of McLarnin, in one minute, nine seconds of the second round of a six-round match. Bruno weighed 139 1-2 pounds; Reed, 137 1-2.

Jackie Sharkey, of Chicago, bantamweight, failed to live up to expectations as he dropped a six-round decision to Lou Camps, of New York, in a first six-rounder. There were no knockdowns. Camps weighed 128; Sharkey, 129 1-2.

ROUND ONE
They came out cautiously, Barney stabbing two light lefts to the head as McLarnin glanced a short left off the challenger's skull. They slipped in close and tapped each other with short right jolts to the head. After feinting carefully, Ross whipped a hard left hook to McLarnin's jaw and the festivities really got under way. McLarnin whanged Barney's head back with two left hooks, and the challenger crowded right back on top of him, whipping a half-dozen lefts to the head. They stuck exclusively to their left-hand weapons, and as Barney loosed another barrage of left hooks, McLarnin ducked and dodged—so skillfully that Ross missed so wide he almost fell. They slugged in mid-ring with both hands, and Ross slammed the first right to McLarnin's jaw as the bell sounded Ross' jaw.

ROUND TWO
They stepped gracefully around each other, two skillful craftsmen, looking for openings, conceding nothing. Ross snapped his left three times into McLarnin's leg, but he missed three more as Jimmy swayed and bobbed before him. McLarnin chased his challenger to the ropes, landed one good left hook to the head, but missed with both hands as they came away. Ross drove the champion to the ropes, smashing his head with lefts and rights in a furious outburst. McLarnin sagged as Ross smashed a half-dozen lefts and rights full to his chin. Jimmy retreated across the ring and took another fair pasting about the head. He boxed carefully back to mid-ring, holding Barney off with his long left hand, but again the challenger swept in and rifled his head with a half-dozen lefts and rights just as the bell sounded. Ross' round.

ROUND THREE
Despite his advantage, Ross was careful, for there was a long way to go. He jabbed McLarnin's head with a left, jumped back from a right to the body. They stabbed cautiously at long range, both feinting beautifully, slipping under leads, looking for openings for left hooks. McLarnin slipped one left hook to the head as they boxed nimbly, but Barney evened it with a hard left hook to the jaw and they fell into a clinch, pounding each other's sides. McLarnin fired a short left hook and a right to the chin, but Barney thudded two crushing left hooks on the champion's jawbone that set the big crowd to howling. Ross stabbed carefully and McLarnin drove him to the ropes with two heavy rights to the body at the bell. Ross' round.

ROUND FOUR
Ross was dazzlingly fast and sharp as he danced around the champion, catching Jimmy's left jabs and hooks on his glove, spiking the champion's head with lefts before they fell into a body-pounding clinch. They came out of that to fence again at long range and Jimmy hooked one good left to the head in return for Ross' left Jimmy's left shot into Ross' face and brought blood from the challenger's eye. Ross, infuriated as the blood trickled down his face, drove the champion into a corner and belted him lustily about the head. Jimmy stalked him carefully, landed two more rights to the head, and they hammered each other furiously along the lemp. Steady as a rock, McLarnin whipped a nice left hook to the head and stabbed Ross' head with a right to the bell rounded. It was McLarnin's round.

ROUND FIVE
Barney's nose still bled as he came out of his corner, and McLarnin stabbed for it with his long left. Jimmy chased the challenger to the ropes, but Barney ducked away from him and whipped a left hook to the head. McLarnin glanced a left hook off Barney's head and they fell into a long clinch, pounding each other's head and body with one free hand. Barney was very careful now. For McLarnin landed another left hook to the face before missing a hard right. They went into another clinch, pounding to the body, and the blood from Ross' nose showed on both McLarnin's shoulders. As they came away, Ross drove a terrific left and right to McLarnin's head, straightening him up, then smashed the champion's jaw with another pair of lefts and rights that brought the crowd to its feet with a roar. McLarnin shook his head, backed away, and they were stabbing carefully at the bell. It was Ross' round.

ROUND SIX
The second seemed finally to have stopped Barney's nose bleed, so McLarnin went right at it with a volley of left jabs. He drove Barney to the ropes with a body barrage, but took a hard left hook on the chin. They danced in mid-clinch, and as McLarnin missed a left Barney hooked him twice on the head. McLarnin's left started to trickle again on Barney's nose. Ross, blocking carefully and boxing beautifully, chased McLarnin into the ropes with a left and right-hand barrage to the head as Jimmy bobbed away from him. Barney forced the champion into a corner and thundered both hands to his body, then whipped them to the head before falling into a clinch where McLarnin drove a hard right under in mid-ring, pounding with one hand free, at the bell. It was Ross' round.

ROUND SEVEN
They dropped quickly into a clinch, rested a little without punching, then stepped out again to paw long lefts at each other's faces. McLarnin slid under Barney's left and whipped both hands to the body, but Barney's elbows were in the way. They landed at each other's heads with lefts again, and then Barney started once more from Barney's nose. McLarnin flung a beautiful left hook to the point of Ross' jaw, chasing him across the ring with left jabs, and nailed him again with a left hook to the head as they came out of a vicious body-punching spree. Charming furiously, Ross buried a left hook deep in the champion's body, then raked his chin with a left hook. McLarnin punched back furiously, landing two lefts to the head, but Ross nailed him with another right to the chin as the bell rang. It was Ross' round.

ROUND EIGHT
There was a slight swelling over McLarnin's left eye and Barney's nose still bled as they danced to mid-ring, swapping long left jabs.

COLONIST BIKE RACE WILL BE STAGED JUNE 14

Date of Thirteenth Road Event Named By Local Officials

Big Entry List Expected for Classic of Bicycle Season—Handsome Trophy to Be at Stake—Five Classes Will Be Arranged—Entry Forms to Be Available

British Columbia's top-ranking pedal pushers will line up at the starting point, Quadra Street and Kings Road, Friday, June 14, waiting for the start of the thirteenth annual bicycle road race. The date was announced yesterday by a special meeting of officials. Known as one of the classic events in the province, the big race will, no doubt, draw the best riding material from Vancouver and Victoria, with the odd entry expected from the various Island points.

Inaugurated in 1922, the Colonist bicycle race was first started to foster cycling and to promote healthy competition among young men and boys in British Columbia. Promoters have so far achieved their aim, and each year the starting list is bigger and the public interest much more full of enthusiasm.

The classes are so arranged that even the smallest boy has an equal chance of carrying off an award. Officials announced that no change has been made in the classification of the riders from last year, when Neil Duval, young local finish, sped over the course in record time to lift the coveted trophy, valued at $150.

SEVERAL CLASSES

Class "A" will include riders over sixteen, using racing machines, while class "B" is for competitors over sixteen, using bicycles with

RAIN HALTS NET PLAY IN FRENCH MEET

Downpour Stops Progress of Tennis Tourney—Menzel And Quist Win

PARIS, May 28 (AP).—Roderich Menzel, the lowering Czech, and Adrian Quist, young Australian Davis Cup player, smashed their way into the quarter-finals of men's singles in the French hard court championships today as rain halted the feature match in the women's division between Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., and Anita Lizana, of Chile.

Miss Andrus, bidding for the singles crown in a crack international field that included only one other American—Helen Jacobs, United States champion—held a 3-1 lead in the first set and apparently was headed for a decisive victory when a downpour forced suspension until tomorrow.

STORM INTERFERES

The storm likewise cut short the programme in the men's division, but not before Menzel had unceremoniously eliminated Ferenc Fancsek, the Hungarian, who created a sensation on Sunday by putting out Jiro Yamaguchi, No. 1 Japanese ace. Menzel won at 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.

Quist scored a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Jacques Jamin, of France, and will meet Menzel in the quarter-finals.

Andre Merlon, former French Davis Cup player, was on the verge of elimination when rain halted his match with Josef Malocek, of Czechoslovakia, with the Czech leading, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Dethroned as Champion

JIMMY McLARNIN

Vancouver's great little Irish fighting machine, who dropped a furious fifteen-round decision and with it the world's welterweight championship, last night, to Barney Ross, Chicago Jew, at the New York Polo Grounds. McLarnin fought a great battle in defence of his crown, but found a terrific-hitting Ross to overcome, a task which proved too big.

"Pop" Foster, McLarnin's manager, stated after the bout it was Jimmy's last fight; but how true this statement rings, time will only tell.

High School Track And Field Events Are Billed Today

B UDDING track and field stars will be seen in action this afternoon on the Victoria High School campus seeking the various school championships in the annual track and field meet. A lengthy programme of events for both boys and girls has been prepared, with the first race scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock. One of the biggest high school sports meets of Victoria and district, the event is expected to attract hundreds of spectators to the campus.

CANADIANS PLAY TODAY

Will Meet Strong Golf Team From Royal and Ancient Club, St. Andrews

EDINBURGH, May 28 (CP).—The touring team of Canadian amateur golfers visited old St. Andrews again today and some of them enjoyed a morning round. Gordie Taylor, of Montreal, came back with a 72 after going out in 38, and Phil Farley, of Toronto, carded a 71, but the others were not so good.

The Canadians will be entertained at a dinner Thursday evening by the Royal and Ancient Club.

The Canadians were out again this afternoon practising for the team match against the Royal and Ancient tomorrow.

Twenty-year-old Bud Donovan, of Winnipeg, last survivor of the Canadians in the amateur championship last week—almost got into the quarter-finals—turned in a 74. Jack Nash, of London, had 75, and Ross "Sandy" Somerville and Phil Farley, 76.

TODAY'S DRAW

Teams tomorrow will be as follows:

Morning Round
Ross Somerville, London, and Ken Black, Vancouver, vs. J. Brodie and Capt. C. G. B. Stevens.

Afternoon Round
Somerville and Black vs. Robertson and Stevenson.
Farley and Nash vs. Brodie and Stevens.
Taylor and Donovan vs. Dowling and McNab.
Moore and Innes vs. Terry and Rolland.

Aunt and Uncle Of Tommy Walker Residents Here

While literally thousands of British Columbia football fans are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the touring Scottish soccer players, two Victorians are today looking forward to their visit here with a personal interest. They are Mrs. Harry Pierce, formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland, who has been in this country little more than a year, and C. Walker, well-known Saanich fruitgrower. Mrs. Pierce is an aunt and Mr. Walker, who is her brother, is an uncle to Tommy Walker, sensational young Hearts player, who is a member of the touring team.

Tennis Courts to Be Opened Today

Located at the Gorge Park, the courts of the Centennial Tennis Club will be officially opened for the season's play this afternoon. All members and their friends are invited. Refreshments will be served.

On Saturday, June 1, the club will play its first match in the third division of the Vancouver Island Tennis League against the C.P.R. team at the Gorge courts.

Anyone wishing to join the Centennial club may do so by telephoning the secretary, G. 6839.

SILENT GLOWS CHALK UP 7-6 BALL VICTORY

Nose Out Army Nine in Eleven Innings—Waudes Beat Laundry

Silent Glows, smooth-functioning softball squad, chalked up their third straight victory of the season yesterday evening at the Royal Athletic Park, when they nose out the smart Army nine, 7-6, in an eleven-inning battle. Lloyd Jones' single broke up a ding-dong ball game in the last half of the eleventh stanza.

New Method Laundry, last season's city and Island champions, took it on the chin for the second successive time when they went down to a 4-3 defeat at the hands of Bert Waudes' softballers in a snappy nine-inning fixture played at Victoria West Park.

Playing improved ball, Civic Staff checked in with their initial victory of the season when they meted out a 11-3 setback to Brundson's Bay at Bullen Park.

GREAT BATTLE
The Silent Glows-Army game at the enclosure was a thriller from start to finish, and when "Lefty" Jones, burnermen's twirler, drove in the winning run in the second extra frame, he brought his club through to a sweet victory.

Trailing 4-0 in the first inning, the lads from Work Point fought back like demons, and pushed across one run in the second frame and two more in each of the fourth and seventh innings, and another in the first of the eighth, to make the score 6-4 in their favor. Silent Glows came back in their half of the eighth inning and sent two runners the distance to even the count at 6-6. The clubs battled fast and furiously throughout the remainder of the fixture, and the deadlock was finally broken when Jones' single scored Bill Levy.

Score by Innings:

McCoy Figures LOUIS VICTORY

DETROIT, May 28 (AP).—Joe Louis, in the opinion of the real McCoy, will beat Primo Carnera when they meet in New York on June 28.

The real McCoy is Norman Selby, now sixty-three, and busy supervising farm lots the Ford Motor Co. provides for its employees. But back in the nineties and early part of this century he was Kid McCoy, recognized in most states as world's middleweight champion and one of the greatest fighters, combining punching power and boxing skill ever to enter a ring.

"I think young Louis will beat Carnera because he is a muscle-bound type of fighter," said McCoy. "But I don't think Louis is quite ready to meet Max Baer for the title. He needs more experience."

Members of Hill's Corner, Lower Island juvenile football champions in the under-sixteen division, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hill, sponsors of the club, Monday evening at the Dominion Hotel. Mr. Hill, in a few well-chosen words, paid a tribute to the work of the youngsters and to their popular manager, Tommy Rickson, and, in concluding, wished them still further success next season.

ARKY VAUGHAN BOOSTS MARK

Gains Twelve Points With Perfect Day at Plate—Johnson Leads

By the Associated Press
After a one-day lull, Arky Vaughan, the Pirates' slugger, slugging shortstop, got back in stride yesterday and with three hits in three times at bat boosted his batting average twelve points to .404. As the result he pulled within seven points of Bob Johnson, leader of baseball's Big Six, who failed to gain, although getting his eleventh home run of the season.

Dawson to Pair With Wethered

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—Johnny Dawson, "businessman amateur" from Chicago, today was selected to partner Joyce Wethered in the opening match of her United States golfing tour.

Replacing the ailing Bobby Jones, Dawson will team up with the famous British star against Gene Sarazen and Glemma Collett Vare in an exhibition match at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club, Glen Head, L.I., Thursday.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

VANCOUVER, May 28.—Playing on a sudden field before 4,000 enthusiastic spectators, Vancouver today defeated New Westminster at lacrosse by a score of nine goals to four, the teams now being even in the series.

The world's champions were completely outclassed, the Vancouverers forcing the play from the start to finish, while the stonewall defence of the home team held the champions famous scoring division down.

The University School boys reaped the reward of six weeks' hard practice by making some record scores yesterday in the first match of the Canadian Rifle League series at Clover Point. The conditions were seven shots each at 200 and 500 yards, and the best scores constituted the team.

The weather was favorable, a cloudy morning being preferable to the direct glare of the sun behind the targets.

The improvement made since last year will be seen from the fact that

HOW VERMONT GOT ITS NAME

Were it not for the white light of history, that sees all, knows all, and exposes to the world the best concealed facts, it would be impossible to believe, for instance, that there was a time when the states of New York and New Hampshire both claimed title to the fee and the soil of what is now the state of Vermont, and almost went to war over it.

Happily for all concerned, Vermont settled the matter by proclaiming her own Declaration of Independence in 1777, and independent has Vermont remained ever since.

Long before Vermont was a full-fledged state, it served as a base of operations during the French wars. It was, in fact, originally a military station settled by Massachusetts colonists.

Because of the rich verdure of its peaks, its inhabitants became known as the Green Mountain boys, and because of the large French strain in its early population, it was called Vermont, as a combination of the French "verd," green, and "mont," mountain.

"It's the things we haven't got that makes us unhappy," remarked the parlor philosopher.

"Think about the toothache?" suggested the mere man.

STIRRING DRAMA OF AIR SHOWING

Capitol Theatre Presents Wallace Beery in "West Point of the Air" starring Leslie Howard.

With the thrill of a blood-stirring background, Wallace Beery comes to the Capitol screen in the most stirring aviation spectacle of the year, "West Point of the Air," which opens today.

Beery, in his role as "Big Mike," gives a dramatic portrayal that surpasses even his performance in "The Champ." His pathetic love for a son whose career almost brings disgrace to the Air Corps, builds into the foundation for one of the most amazing screen climaxes ever filmed.

Columbia — "British Agent," starring Leslie Howard.

Dominion — Marlene Dietrich in "The Devil Is a Woman."

Playhouse — "The Painted Veil," starring Greta Garbo.

The young romantic lead is Maureen O'Sullivan, whose recent hit "David Copperfield" won her great acclaim from critics and public alike. She gives a freshness and vitality to her performance that will win many admirers.

The most important role since his smash hit in "The Sin of Madelon Claude" is filled by Robert Young as "Little Mike," Beery's son. He gives a notable performance as a young man whose ego interferes with good sense until parental love helps him to find himself.

Francis Howard, who played the part of Hector Stort in "Remorse," which won first place.

WHO takes the leading male role in "Autumn Crocus," which is being presented at the Shrine Auditorium tonight. A popular member of the Beaux Arts, he was chosen as the best individual actor in the recent Dominion Drama Festival eliminations here, when he played the part of Hector Stort in "Remorse," which won first place.

DOMINION A woman who won Theatre love from all men, yet gave it to none.

An enchantress whose smile brought destruction, whose kiss brought heartbreak. That is the role Marlene Dietrich is playing in Paramount's "The Devil Is a Woman," now at the Dominion Theatre.

The latest of the pictures to be produced by the famous Dietrich-Von Sternberg combination is a drama of love and intrigue set in the Spain of the 18th century.

COLUMBIA The ability of Kay Theatre France to give distinction to clothes is again evident in "British Agent," the first National production, which is now at the Columbia Theatre.

The period of the picture is 1917 and the locale Russia. The clothes of that day have a fascinating picturesqueness. In designing them, no concession has been made to the trend of today's fashions.

PLAYHOUSE "The Painted Veil," starring Greta Garbo, will be seen at the Playhouse Theatre for the last time today. Herbert Marshall and George Brent are also in the cast.

ANNUAL DANCE REVUE AT ROYAL ON JUNE 7

The tenth annual dance revue of the Florence Clough Dance Academy will be presented on June 7 at the Royal Victoria Theatre. The unquestioned advantages of this theatre for elaborate staging and effective lighting made it the choice for the presentation of the school's revue this year. All its splendid equipment is being utilized, extensive stage settings being built, and every opportunity seized to make the revue this year surpass all previous performances.

The skillful arrangement of the programme has provided a sparkling succession of rhythmic beauty, lively jazz and dramatic interpretations. Featured will be several dancers who have greatly popularized themselves by their hard-boiled, laughable, lovable! And never such a drama to cheer about!

While the film is originally shown would certainly bear repetition, the arrival of new reels not previously available will be an added attraction, and is calculated to appeal to many past patrons.

"Canterbury and Through Kent to Romney Marsh," "From Gloucester to Bath," "Heart of England" (including Lincoln, Sandringham, the Shakespeare country, etc.) are among the pictures, while the London reels and that of "Trooping the Colors" will be as welcome as ever, to say nothing of the fascination of the river and the water-side, as seen in "Up the Thames," and the stories of the North in "Across the Pennines."

PIANO GROUPS TO BE TAUGHT

Christopher Wade Appointed To Summer-School Staff —Has Pioneer Course

An extra-curricular study, that of piano classes in public schools, has, more or less, been given official recognition by the Provincial Department of Education, which has appointed Christopher Wade as instructor of piano classes at the forthcoming Summer school to be held in the Victoria High School during July. Announcement of his appointment was made yesterday.

His appointment to the staff was made following an inspection of Mr. Wade's piano classes in the public schools, where a high standard of proficiency was found. Mr. Wade pioneered this study among elementary students, starting some three years ago.

The classes met with such success that Oak Bay and Saanich schools adopted them in several instances, with a view to watching their progress.

Mr. Wade, five years ago, took the normal school course in instruction, and since then has developed his own system of teaching pianoforte in class groups.

In the East, pianoforte classes have been included on the regular curriculum. Started fourteen years ago as an extra-curricular subject, the classes met with so overwhelming response from the student body that the subject eventually was included in the regular curriculum.

The classes at the Summer school are really for beginners only, but the Department of Education has received so many requests from interested adults that it has decided to organize a class for adult beginners, in addition to classes for child beginners. This is the first time these classes have been included in the Summer school syllabus.

CARDIGAN

CHAPTER XXI
It was on Pitt Street that we found Shemuel, trudging toward the King's Road. He saw us immediately, but made no sign as we approached until I asked the price of a silk buckle. Then he whined and protested he could not make change, and ended by begging us to follow to the "Bear and Cub," just opposite, where change might be had in the taproom.

The "Bear and Cub" was a small, dark, and dingy place, and I followed, curiously enough, Shemuel appeared to suspect in advance what I wanted. "If you had told me this morning—ah—bud I peevish you care noddings, Mister Cardigan. She was waiting to see you, sir, at Lady Siltelton's in the Boundary. The banns will be published from every church in Pittsburg, Richmond and Williamsburg!"

I gazed at him, catching my breath. "Shemuel," I asked, "what did she say when you told her I was in Pitt?"

"Miss Warren went white like you did, sir, and then she sat down under the dress, and she cry mit her sullen!"

I fumbled in my belt and pulled out a gold piece. "Thank you, Shemuel," I muttered, dropping it into his greasy cap. "Tell Mound and Renard where I have gone. Where is Lady Siltelton's house?"

He led me to a back window and pointed out the Boundary road. Then he told me to keep on towards the north until I came to a large, white-pillared house on a terrace.

I found no difficulty in discovering the house. There was a lady in the orchard, with her back turned toward me, leaning on a stone wall and apparently contemplating the town below. At the crunch of my moccasins on the gravel path she looked around, and then came hastily toward me.

"Are you a runner from Johnstown?" she asked, sharply. The lady was Silver Heels. She did not know me, nor had I recognized her at first. That she did not recognize me was less to be wondered at. The dark mask of the sun, which I now wore, had changed me to an Indian; anxiety, fatigue, and my awful peril in the Cayuga camp had made haggard a youthful face.

But that I had not recognized her till she spoke distressed me. She, too, had grown tall; she looked shockingly frail. "Silver Heels," I said. Her hand flew to her bosom. After a moment she turned and walked back to the wall. She leaned on it, looking out over the town again, and I followed her.

"Silver Heels," I asked, "are you afraid to see me?" "No!" she said. "Do you know why I am here?" I demanded.

She shrugged her shoulders. "Why you are here? Yes, I know why." "Why, then?" I snapped. "Because you believed that Marie Hamilton was here," she said, and leaned back. "But you come too late, Vicky," she added, spitefully. "Your Bonnie Marie Hamilton is a widow now, and already back in Albany to mourn poor Captain Hamilton."

My ears were growing hot. "Do you believe—" I began. But she turned her back, saying, "Oh, Micky, don't lie!" "Lie!" I cried, exasperated. "Fib, then. But you should have arrived in time, my poor friend. Last week came the news that Captain Hamilton had been shot on the Kentucky. If you had only been here! But pray follow Mrs. Hamilton to Albany. She talked of nobody but you! She treated Mr. Bevan to one of her best silk mittens—"

"What nonsense is this?" I cried, alarmed. "Does Mrs. Hamilton believe I am in love with her?" "Why did you court her?" demanded Silver Heels. "Why? Oh, I—I fancied I was in love with you—and so I meant to make you jealous, Silver Heels. Upon my honor, that was all!"

The set smile on Silver Heels' lips did not relax. "So you fancied you loved me?" she asked. "I—oh—yes. Silver Heels, I was such a fool!"

"Faded you were!" she told me. "There's one thing certain," I said. "I don't feel bound in honor to wed Mrs. Hamilton. I like her; she's pretty and sweet. But I don't want to wed anybody. I could wed you, if I chose, now, for Sir William wishes it, and he promised me he means to maintain you!"

"I thank Sir William—and you!" said Silver Heels, turning pale under her rouge. "Oh, don't be frightened," I muttered. "I can't have you—and my country, too. Silver Heels, I'm a rebel!"

She did not answer. "Or at least, I'm close to it," I went on. "I'm here to seek Lord Dunmore."

"Well, Micky?" she said, serenely. "What of Lord Dunmore?" "I told her what I had heard. She did not deny it."

"What of it?" she asked. "I am to marry him; you and Sir William will not have him to endure." "It's a disastrous thing," I said, solemnly. "If you cannot perceive the infamy of such a marriage, then I'll do your thinking for you and stop this shameful betrothal now!"

"I shall wed Dunmore in July." "No, you won't!" I retorted, stung to fury. "Sir William has betrothed you to me. And by Heaven! if it comes to that, I will wed you myself, you little fool!"

"You are a biased, clinging, slender hands. Wed you! Not if I loved you dearer than hope of Heaven, Michael Cardigan!" "I do not ask you to love me," I retorted, sullenly. "I do not ask you to wed me, save as a last resort. Renounce Dunmore and return with me to Johnstown, and I promise you I will not press my suit. But if you do not, by Heaven! I shall claim my prior right under our betrothal, and I shall take you with me to Johnstown. Will you come?"

"Lord Dunmore shall give you your answer," she said, looking wicked and shaking in every limb. "And I will give him his!" I cried. "Pray you attend tonight's ceremony in the fortress, and you will learn such truths as you never dreamed!"

Suddenly she broke down and laid her head in her arms. Much disturbed, I watched her. Anger died out; I leaned on the wall beside her, speaking gently and striving to draw her fingers from her face. I begged for her consolation again; I recalled our old comradeship and asked pardon for all wherein I had hurt her.

She raised her eyes to me, then closed them. Neck and brow were reddening. "You are not in love?" I asked. "Aye, sick with it," she said slowly, with closed lids. "Do you mean that you love Dunmore?"

She laughed a laugh that frightened me, so wickedly bitter it rang in the Summer air. "Oh, yes—Dunmore, if you wish—or any man—any man. I care not."

"And he?" "Oh, he is a true man—a true man, for he is stupid and vain and tyrannical and violent—and a fool to boot, Michael—a fool to boot, Michael. But I love him."

"Who is this man?" I asked, cautiously. "Not Dunmore, Michael." "Not Dunmore! And yet you wed Dunmore?"

"Because I love the other, Michael. Now, tell me whom I love." "Heaven knows!" I said, in my amazement. "Heaven knows I love a fool!"

"Who is this fellow?" I insisted. "But she only laughed at me. And now her laughter out, with its undertone of pitying tears. "Very well," said I, "you shall not have Dunmore for spite of a fool unworthy of you; and you shall not have the fool, either."

"I am not likely to get him," she said, dully, tired voice. "And—and from the other—the one you love—the fool?"

"He will leave me—when you leave me," she answered. "You mean to say this painful ass will follow you and me to Johnstown?" I cried. "Truly he will!" she said hysterically, and covered her face with her hands. But whether she was laughing or crying I could not determine, and I stalked, wrathfully away, determined to teach this same fool that his folly was not to my taste. (To Be Continued)

Due to lack of funds in the war period, the Provincial Library missed an opportunity of acquiring a four-volume set of the valuable edition of the works of John James Audubon, naturalist on North American life, whose 150th anniversary is being celebrated this year. Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial librarian, explained yesterday the library secured two volumes of the elephant edition, on quadrupeds; and eight volumes of a smaller edition by the same author, including bird plates. The bird volumes in the elephant edition, only twenty-four of which have been sold since 1882, were returned to their owner, and later taken to England.
